ILLNESS COMPELS LEE TO WITHDRAW

Congressman From Seventh District Announces He Will Not Ask Renomination.

Washington, June 25.—(Special.)—Representative Gordon Lee, of the seventh congressional district, has been compelled to withdraw from the contest for renomination to congress because of ill health.

In a statement issued at his office here today, Representative Lee, who has been ill for some time, stated that his doctor had advised him to withdraw from the race. He stated that he has improved, but that his restoration to health would depend upon quiet and rest.

His statement follows: "When I announced my candidacy for reelection to congress some time ago I had every reason to believe my health would permit me to serve as your congressman another term. After the announcement, however, I became ill and while I am gradually improving, my further improvement and complete restoration to health depend largely on quietude and rest.

"Under the circumstances and on advice of my physician, I have decided to withdraw from the race for congress, and in taking this step I cannot refrain from expressing my deep gratitude for the solicitude and loyalty of my friends and also what seems to me the almost unanimous sentiment of the people and press of the district that I be continued in the office to the duties of which I have devoted the best efforts of my life.

"Deeply grateful for the honors you have so willingly bestowed upon me in the past, and assuring you that in private life I will continue to work for the advancement and uplift of my section and state, I am,

"Yours gratefully," "GORDON LEE."

20,000 EXPECTED TO BE PRESENT AT VETS' REUNION

Heroes of North and South Who Took Part in Battle 62 Years Ago To Meet Again Today.

GENERAL HARRIS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Marietta Prepares for Huge Throng That Will Parade to Mountain at 10 O'Clock.

Marietta, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)

Marietta's greatest celebration, the reunion of Blue and Gray hosts, is expected to bring to the Cobb county center today a throng of many thousands from Atlanta, from every town in the county, and from distant states, to join in the ceremonies commemorating the battle of Kennesaw mountain, fought here 62 years ago today.

Veterans of the north and south who fought at Kennesaw mountain have been sought diligently by the Marietta Chamber of Commerce for weeks, and hundreds have accepted the invitation. Many of the visitors from northern states arrived last night and are guests in hospitable Marietta homes.

The celebration is expected to be a vivid demonstration of the great interest taken not only locally but nationally in the government's proposal to establish on Kennesaw mountain, a mile from Marietta, a great military memorial park, with roadways and monuments, dedicated to the heroes of both armies. The commission entrusted by the government with the task of making a preliminary survey and an estimate of the cost made an inspection of the battlefield yesterday and its members are on the program as speakers today.

20,000 Expected.

Marietta is prepared to receive 20,000 or more visitors and make them comfortable. Parking space for 2,000 cars has been provided at the base of Kennesaw mountain, within easy walking distance of the speakers' stand, upon the side of the mountain where two great gashes in the forest mark the trenches of 1864, and one-way motor roads will prevent confusion and congestion.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the civic bodies of Rome, Cartersville, Acworth, Roswell, Kennesaw, Canton, Dallas and other towns have been cooperating generously with Marietta in preparations for the celebration, and will join in the parade which will open the ceremonies.

The parade is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock from Atlanta street, near the public square, and the route will lead out the Dixie highway to Kennesaw, a mile away. Three hundred of Cobb county's prettiest girls, representing every part of the county, will be dressed in white, with the Union and Confederate colors, and

Making Out The Bill of Fare

Planning the meals for a family is an easy and pleasant part of the housewife's daily routine, if she does that work while reading the grocery, market and produce advertisements in the morning Constitution.

With a pencil and tablet at hand she writes down the articles she desires, the prices, and where they are to be purchased. She knows just how much the supply of foodstuffs is going to cost, and there is no chance of exceeding her budget.

Offerings advertised and prices given in The Constitution this morning are the last for the day's business. In many instances they supersede prices quoted yesterday, which are now at least 18 hours old.

Lawyer Given Fine of $25 For Contempt

Fred Harrison and Client, Abe Nissenbaum, Fined By Recorder.

This thing of settling damage suits arising out of traffic accidents and resulting prosecution in reckless driving cases abruptly collapse has got to stop.

At least that's the stern declaration of Recorder Murphy Holloway, who Friday afternoon fined Attorney Fred Harrison $25 for contempt of court and his client, Abe Nissenbaum, $50 in police court.

Nissenbaum and John Ford, a negro, ran their cars together on Glen Iris drive near Ponce de Leon, about two weeks ago. They were charged with reckless driving. The case was called for Friday afternoon. At that time it developed that Attorney Harrison had executed two witnesses from appearing on the ground that a financial settlement had been effected. The witnesses were dropped. Recorder Holloway said he thought the recorder should be allowed to dismiss his own witnesses, and fined Harrison $25. He exonerated Ford and Nissenbaum of reckless driving, but stuck with the law in reporting the accident to the police.

The reckless driving cases coming before this court, Judge Holloway said in passing sentence, "I am met with a request for dismissal because the injured parties have made financial settlement of their damages. To acquiesce in this tendency is to permit this court and the police department to be used for intimidating settlement and to surrender the integrity of the law we are sworn to uphold. Frankly, defendants coming before this court on charges of reckless driving may expect to stand trial."

Prohi Party To Put Ticket In New York Field

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The prohibition party is in the field again, at least so far as New York is concerned.

After remaining dormant since 1922, when it failed to poll the required number of votes, it has awakened and tossed its hat into the ring. Before it can function as a recognized party, however, it must obtain nominating petitions for its candidates signed by at least 12,000 persons and at least 50 in each of 67 counties.

Gathering here yesterday nearly 60 prohibitionists selected a full state ticket and adopted a platform. Both major parties, the national administration, the legislature, United States Senator James W. Wadsworth and Governor Alfred E. Smith were denounced in speeches and platform planks for failing to enforce prohibition and attempting to nullify the constitution.

The meeting endorsed the senatorial candidacy of Franklin W. Cristman, former state senator from Herkimer county, but did not place Mr. Cristman on its ticket. For governor it named Charles E. Manierre, New York attorney.

MARION TALLEY AND MARTINELLI GO INTO MOVIES

CLEVELANDERS HOLD UNUSUAL PINOCHE HANDS

Cleveland, June 25.—(AP)—Two unusual pinocle hands were announced here today. Upon learning that Mrs. J. I. Gibson held 1,000 aces—eight aces—Harry B. Hertel, deputy clerk at the election board, declared that he held 1,500 spades.

Hertel claims that he held a double run of ace, king, queen, jack and ten of spades, in addition to the ace of hearts and jack of diamonds. The jack formed a pinocle with the queen of spades, giving forty more.

"My partner held two twenties and nine of trumps making fifty points," Hertel said. "we took every trick, giving 250 more points. The total was 1,840 points."

NOMINATES PERKINS FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Milwaukee, June 25.—(AP)—Closing their two-day convention today, conservative republicans planned to make a vigorous fight for the "redemption of Wisconsin" by seeking the nomination of Assemblyman Charles E. Perkins for governor and a standard bearer selected to replace him.

With the disposal last night of the prohibition question by insertion of a plank favoring a national referendum on whether the eighteenth amendment should be repealed or the Volstead act modified, the convention moved along smoothly today.

Mrs. McPherson Plans To Lecture On Experiences

Douglas, Ariz., June 25.—Aimee Semple McPherson determined to convince the skeptics that her disappearance from a southern California bathing beach was the result of a kidnapping plot and that for more than a month she was held captive in Mexico by bandits.

The woman evangelist, who disappeared mysteriously from across the Mexican border, after being mourned as dead by her religious followers, has started a series of public lectures about her experiences, now that authorities doubt whether she was really abducted.

Mrs. McPherson made her first appeal here Friday night in an address at City park shortly before leaving for Los Angeles, the home of Angelus temple, where she presides over a congregation of 25,000 worshippers. Previous to the address the whole town turned out to pay her homage. Business was suspended and a half holiday was declared in the evangelist's honor. The blowing of whistles and tolling of bells added to the celebration. It seemed that the Douglas populace did not share in the skepticism of its authorities concerning Mrs. McPherson's story.

WILL Make Speeches.

En route back to California with her mother, Aimee plans to speak from the rear platform of the train if large enough crowds gather along the right-of-way.

Mrs. McPherson is now virtually recovered from the experiences that she described so vividly and seems little perturbed by abandonment of the search for her abductors by local authorities.

She has set her own detectives on the case with those employed by the congregation of Angelus temple.

Returning from an expedition into the desert where Mrs. McPherson told of escaping from an adobe hut, Sheriff Jim McDonald said he had found none of the scenes that she described. The evangelist herself headed one expedition across the border and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, headed another. When they returned they said they had found nothing of importance.

WARM WELCOME PLANNED BY FOLLOWERS

Los Angeles, Calif., June 25.—Aimee Semple McPherson will be welcomed like one returning from the dead by the congregation of Angelus temple when she arrives her Saturday evening from Douglas, Ariz.

The evangelist has the largest following of any pastor in California and a majority of her converts plan to meet her at the train singing hymns of the faith which she has taught them.

The welcoming committee will then escort her to the temple, where she will deliver a sermon.

ATTEMPT TO FIND CABIN JAIL FALLS.

Douglas, Ariz., June 25.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, failed today to locate the cabin in North Sonora, Mexico, from which she declares she escaped Tuesday after being held captive for more than a month by kidnapers whom she says seized her May 18 at Ocean Beach near Los Angeles.

Following the fruitless expeditions during the day into the cacti mesquite-covered desert lands across the international border in search of the cabin, Mrs. McPherson reiterated that her story of the kidnapping was true.

She offered a reward of $500 to anyone who would find the cabin.

"Every word I have uttered about my kidnapping and escape is true," the evangelist asserted. "If I have been unable to answer any questions propounded by a score of newspapermen, detectives, attorneys, friends, even my mother—I have told them 'I do not know' or 'I do not remember.'"

"My story is true. I have permitted every reporter to ask any question and where I knew the answer I gave it."

Mrs. McPherson, on her trips into Mexico today, repeatedly failed in her attempt to find any identifying marks along the trails.

ACTORS IN GERMANY REJECT 'RED' INFLUENCE

Berlin, June 25.—(AP)—17th shouts of "we don't want a red international," the International Actors' congress adjourned temporarily tonight, jeopardizing the plans for formation of an international equity association.

HARTLEY OPPOSES GASOLINE PROBE BY TRADE BODY

Olympia, Wash., June 25.—(AP)—Declaring that he has no faith in "political investigations," Governor Hartley has written a letter to Governor Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, in which he states that in his judgment the proposal of Governor Byrd to have the federal trade commission investigate the increases in the cost of gasoline since last February, "would simply be another opportunity for a bunch of lame ducks and political tramps to climb on the backs of the already overburdened taxpayers."

Governor Byrd wrote Governor Hartley, urging that he write President Coolidge and ask that the federal trade commission be instructed to make investigations.

"The constantly increasing encroachment of government in business is expensive," Governor Hartley wrote. "Our country is suffering terribly from that malady today. I should like to see governmental interference greatly curtailed rather than increased."

BRUNSWICK MEN ELECTED OFFICERS OF HIGHWAY BODY

Wilmington, N. C., June 25.—(AP)—Frank O. Miller, of Jacksonville, Fla., was re-elected president and Charles S. C. was selected as the next meeting place at the concluding session here today of the Atlantic Coastal Highway association.

W. S. Wilkinson, of Rocky Mount, N. C., was elected vice president; Fred G. Wards, of Brunswick, Ga., re-elected general secretary, and H. L. Phillips, also of Brunswick, was named treasurer.

State chairmen were elected as follows: Virginia, E. E. Goodwin, Emporio; North Carolina, Harry Jacobs, Newbern; and L. A. Roney, Goldsboro; Georgia, Charles Day and George H. Herbert, both of Savannah; Florida, B. R. Kessler, Fort Pierce; W. P. Pelete, South Jacksonville; South Carolina, Neils Christensen, Beaufort; C. V. Wilden, Marion.

GREAT OVATION GIVEN TO BYRD BY NEW YORKERS

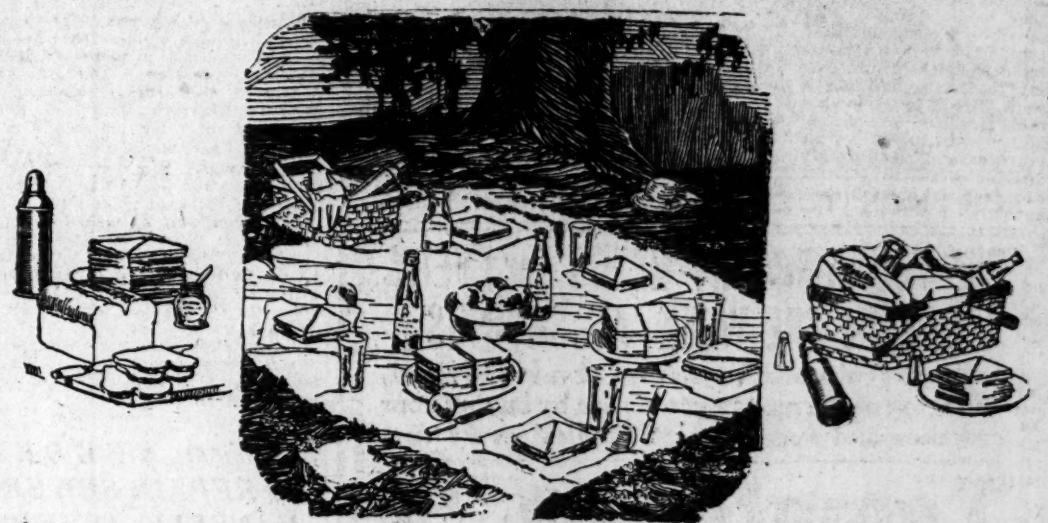

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett, his pilot in the north pole flight, were given a tremendous ovation tonight by crowds which filled Carnegie hall to hear the first of a series of lectures by Commander Byrd.

Douglas Robinson, assistant secretary of the navy, paid a tribute to Byrd's leadership and Bennett's resourcefulness.

The commander told in detail of his flight to the pole, illustrating his story with the motion picture films taken en route.

BROWN'S NAME TWO SUCCESSORS

After appointing a temporary successor to L. B. Jackson, retired director of the state bureau of markets, J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, Friday declared he will make permanent appointments to succeed Jackson as well as Fred T. Bridges, who retired as assistant commissioner, just as soon as he can find men he believes to be fitted for these posts.

This statement came as the only development Friday in the situation caused by the rupture between Commissioner Brown and two of his chief political lieutenants which occurred a few minutes before the entries closed in the state primary Wednesday.

Commissioner Brown demanded the resignation of Mr. Jackson and Mr. Bridges after they had informed him they would support J. H. Mills in the race for commissioner of agriculture. The two officials retired from the department Thursday after declaring that they had not resigned but were "fired" by Brown.

R. H. Hancock, who has been connected with the bureau of markets for years, was named to fill the post of director of the bureau temporarily as successor to Jackson. No temporary appointment was made by the commissioner in the case of Bridges.

Commissioner Brown said he would have a complete statement soon which he would make public. He said he would give details of "a plot" under which the two officials planned to put Mr. Mills, also an employee, into the race for commissioner of agriculture against Brown Wednesday.

Mr. Jackson and Mr. Bridges retired from the department offices Thursday. Neither has announced plans for the future. Mr. Jackson said he will take a short rest and then enter other work.

BLUE RIDGE CIRCUIT GETS NEW JUDGE

JOHN S. WOOD,

COUNCIL-MANAGER GOVERNMENT URGED

and of the seven heads of departments provided, five are to be appointed by the manager and two by council. The board of education shall have nine members elected from the city at large.

Miss Raoul told of efforts to pass a bill through the 1925 legislature authorizing a local election on the new charter. She said that J. O. Wood, one of the Fulton delegation, promised to introduce the bill, but failed to do so. Miss Bessie Kempton, she said, promised to support it, while Frank Hooper, the third member from Fulton, did not commit himself, saying afterwards that he did not fully understand what she wanted.

Miss Raoul ascribed the failure of Mr. Wood or other members of the delegation to introduce the bill to opposition to the bill by interests which now, she said, control city politics here, and the fact that it was easier not to introduce the bill at all than to vote against a proposed change to leave the issue to settlement by the people. She referred to the new charter election in 1922, when, she said, the proposed change failed of election by only two or three hundred votes.

Citizens Vote Approval.
The citizens voted unanimous approval of the movement to adopt a standard time for Atlanta and decided to wait upon the ordinance committee of council when this matter comes up at the meeting next Thursday. It has already been approved by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the Chamber of Commerce and other bodies.

The club also authorized, by unanimous vote, sending of telegrams to the two Georgia senators in Washington asking their support of the rivers and harbors bill, now before a senate committee. Atlanta is directly interested in the bill, it was pointed out, but Savannah, Brunswick, Valdosta and Columbus are, and it was the view that anything which benefited any part of the state should be backed by Atlanta. It was the first time the Citizens had met in the new Athletic club building on Luckie street, where they will hold their weekly luncheons in future.

Tobacco MARKET OPENS AUGUST 3

Douglas, Ga., June 25.—(Special.) Georgia's tobacco markets open August 3, announcement is made by the Tobacco Association of America meeting in Atlantic City. South Carolina markets will open August 10 and North Carolina September 7.

Twenty-two Georgia markets will operate this season. The Douglas market will engage the services of three sets of buyers and the crop for this season will be the largest ever made and indications are that the grade will be of superior quality, in account of favorable weather conditions.

The opening date in Georgia this year is five days later than it was last year, the sale season opening on July 28 in 1925.

It is estimated that 50,000 acres are planted to tobacco in Georgia, which will yield from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds, the estimated income being from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

About 60 south Georgia counties grow tobacco.

McCartney Quits Big Exposition In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 25.—(AP)—Because the directors decided to open the sequi-centennial exposition on Sundays, the Rev. Clarence E. McCartney, former moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, today resigned from various exposition committees. His action follows that of Bishop Joseph E. Berry, of the Methodist Episcopal church, who earlier in the week, withdrew as chairman of the exposition on programs.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. McCartney declared it was his conviction that a lawless act should constitute a part of the celebration of 150 years of national existence.

Governor Pinchot today was asked to have Attorney General Woodruff seek an injunction in the state supreme court restraining the sequi-centennial association from opening the exposition on Sunday. The request was sent by two Philadelphia organizations, the Methodist Men's Committee of One Hundred and the Philadelphia Sunday School association of the 17th district.

A reproduction of Sulgrave manor, ancestral home of George Washington, was dedicated today at the exposition grounds. The ceremony was conducted by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America. Mrs. James Starr, chairman of the national committee of the organization, presided over the dedication of the building to Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, of Georgia, president of the society. The dedication was held at the exposition grounds, which were dedicated to the nation by the Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania.

Singing Contests Slated for July 4 At Lakewood Park

A contest for the rural negro congregation of a special committee north Georgia was announced Friday by Oscar Mills, secretary-manager of the Southeastern Fair association, as the feature of the spectacular Fourth of July celebration at Lakewood park next week.

The contest, preliminaries for which have been in progress for several weeks, was made public following the meeting of the executive committee of the association at which a $15,000 program of entertainment for a three-day celebration of the Fourth was approved.

County Policeman William A. Riley is chairman of a special committee on selection which has been visiting rural colored churches in this section for several weeks to pick those in which the best quality and a final canvass of more than a dozen in the ten counties around Atlanta will be made during the services Sunday to narrow the contenders down to two.

The entire congregations of churches finally selected will occupy the mammoth stage in front of the Lakewood grandstand on the afternoon of the Fourth of July, and will sing negro spirituals and religious songs. The winner will be selected by the applause of the audience which will be composed exclusively of white people.

Harness and running horse racing, fireworks, a series of band concerts each afternoon and evening and among other features planned for the three-day celebration.

SNAKES ARE FOUND AS PART OF "CURE" OF CHINESE TIGER

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Snakes may be more or less common as an aftermath of drinking alcoholic liquor, but it remained for a Chinese to include them among its ingredients.

Police noted that a number of patients at J. Le You's Mott street store emerged carrying bottles. Investigating they found a number of bottles containing a dark brown liquid which, they said, when tested, showed 41 per cent alcohol. Further investigation disclosed a still—and in the bottom among a mixture of various herbs, a six foot black snake, very dead, and portions of assorted smaller snakes.

Le You advertised the brown liquid as "a medicine good for weakness, lassitude and mental fatigue." He was held in $1,000 bail for hearing by a United States commissioner.

DREAM IS REALIZED AS GRANDFATHER BECOMES PASTOR

Boston, June 25.—(AP)—A dream of his youth, cherished through two score years, has come true for Hermon J. Morrison, 57-year-old grandfather and father of eight children, who has just been ordained to the Baptist ministry.

After his children were grown, Mr. Morrison, a book binder by trade, found the time for study denied him in early youth. Last night, in his native city, Boston, where he went to work years ago at the age of 12, Mr. Morrison was ordained a clergyman. He has accepted a call to become pastor of the Newmarket, N. H., Baptist church. Mrs. Morrison and seven of their eight children attended the ordination ceremony at Hyde Park church.

Doughnuts and coffee in a Salvation Army canteen today were being served to disabled American veterans. The canteen, camouflaged with shrubbery and beautified with army lassies, has been established in the municipal auditorium and is one of the most popular things the Disabled American Veterans have yet discovered in the city.

Ashurst Predicts Senate Will Deny W. S. Vare Seat

Washington, June 25.—(AP)—Prediction that the senate will refuse to seat William S. Vare, who resigned from the Pennsylvania legislature, was made today by Senator Ashurst, Arizona, democrat.

Senator Heflin was discussing the expenditures in Pennsylvania's $3,000,000 primary.

"The seat was sold to the lowest bidder and the worst of the bidders," said Senator Ashurst. "The seat was sold to the lowest bidder and the worst of the bidders," said Senator Ashurst. "The seat was sold to the lowest bidder and the worst of the bidders," said Senator Ashurst.

Senator Neely, West Virginia, democrat, recently offered a resolution which would declare anyone ineligible to the senate who spent in excess of $10,000 to be nominated or elected.

LIMITATION ON CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES PROPOSED

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, June 25.—Amendment of the senate's bill to curb excessive campaign expenditures and fixing the maximum which any candidate for the senate may spend at $25,000 is proposed in a resolution offered in the senate this afternoon by Senator La Follette, republican, of Wisconsin.

The resolution is the direct result of disclosure of lavish expenditures in the recent senatorial nomination contest in Pennsylvania between Senator Pepper, Governor Pinchot and Representative W. S. Vare developed by the senate's special slush fund committee, of which Senator La Follette is a member.

Three Cents a Vote.
Unless the state laws of a particular state prescribe a smaller maximum, the La Follette resolution would place the limit of campaign expenditures at $25,000 for an amount equal to the amount obtained by multiplying 3 cents by the total number of votes cast at the last general election in such state for all to be elected to the office of senator, but in no event exceeding $25,000.

By adoption of the La Follette rule, according to the senatorial opinion given the Wisconsin senator by the senate's legislative counsel, Glenn McHugh, the senate is giving adequate notice to every state that unless the procedure in the primary election conforms to the requirements of the senate rule, a successful candidate for a seat in that body may be disqualified by the senate.

"Recent revelations of excessive campaign expenditures make it imperative for the senate to take steps to limit such expenditures before adjournment of the present session," declared Senator La Follette as he presented the resolution.

No Federal Legislation.
"In the Newberry case the supreme court of the United States declared that congress did not have the power to legislate directly to limit campaign expenditures in connection with primary elections. Since the date of that decision there has been no federal legislation to control expenditures in primary campaigns, and many of the states have failed to enact effective corrupt practices acts to deal with the situation."

"Thus an opportunity has been afforded for wealthy candidates or those backed by rich and powerful interests to attempt to buy their seats in the senate by the use of huge slush funds in the primary campaigns. In Pennsylvania alone the ascertained expenditures for the various candidates already have reached the staggering total of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. Such debauchery of the electorate means the eternal destruction of representative government in the United States."

"I am, therefore, introducing a resolution which shall limit the amount of campaign expenditures and the purposes for which such expenditures shall be made. I shall urge the passage of this resolution before adjournment, so that all candidates may be duly advised of the limitations which they must place upon their expenditures in order to be seated."

Democratic Campaign Cost.
Earlier in the day the senate slush fund investigating committee, questioning William B. Wilson, the democratic nominee for senator in Pennsylvania, learned that the combined campaigns of Wilson and William E. Porter, democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, cost slightly less than $10,000.

Wilson testified that his personal expenses in the campaign were only $88.81, that of the $10,000 total about $4,000 has been paid and payment of the $6,000 balance has been guaranteed by Vance McCormick, Pittsburgh publisher and former chairman of the democratic national committee.

STATE TO AWARD ROAD CONTRACTS

The state highway department will announce awards of thirty-eight contracts for state aid road work Tuesday, it was announced Friday after bids on the projects were submitted at the offices of the department at East Point. Some important stretches of road are included in the projects. About 70 miles of paved roads will be included.

One of the contracts will call for completion of an important link in the coastal plain highway from Savannah to Brunswick. Another project will complete a link in the Atlanta-Macon highway in Clayton county.

Russians Hail Success Of American Travelers

Moscow, June 25.—All Russia is celebrating the successful flight of Edward G. Evans, Detroit millionaire, and Linton Wells, correspondent of The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, from Moscow to Omsk in the course of their race to break the record for circling the globe. The flight has made a great impression among soviet officials and air technicians.

Unschlicht, acting head of the soviet war department; Sergius Kamenev, generalissimo of the army, and Baranov, head of the air force, sent telegrams of congratulations to Pilot Kopilot for "enduring energy in creating a new glorious page in soviet aviation."

The presidium of Moscow transport workers, of which the aviators form a section, wired Kopilot, "In the name of the 23,000 transport workers of Moscow we commend your flight and are proud of you. Hail to the air workers."

A shop committee of Aviakhs workers sent congratulations to the press which read in part: "The problem was not easy for the trip was fully loaded, and the trip a great and dangerous territory few pilots have dared to penetrate. Aviakhs is proud of you."

The soviet aviation organization have already begun discussing the possibilities of a trans-Siberian air service which may come into being next year.

Irving Berlin Is Accused Of Theft of "All Alone"

New York, June 25.—Irving Berlin was not all alone when he wrote "All Alone" according to Abe Brown, of Tin Pan Alley.

Abe charges that the sentiment which is popularly supposed to have won the heart and later the hand of Ellin Mackay, was not Berlin's at all. Sung in federal court, Abe charges Irving with theft.

The latter dedicated "All Alone" to the heiress who later became his bride, but Brown, represented by Goldstein and Goldstein, claims to have written the song prior to August 15, 1924, when it appeared under Berlin's signature.

The action asks that Berlin's music publishing company be compelled to give an accounting of the sales of "All Alone" and restrained from further sale of the lyrics and melody, and that the better known composer's copyright be declared null and void.

The complainant admits he never copyrighted the song, but alleges that he delivered it to J. S. Parell, whom he believes to be Berlin's agent.

Hope of Woman Held 20 Years Near Realization

BY ROSEMARY STEVENSON.
Almost as regular as a one-gallon farmer boy gives an upward jerk to his trousers, does Atlanta get uplifted by the news that the city is now salvaging "us heathen."

This state of things has been going on for 24 years. The only reason that Atlanta can now sit up and take notice is that the work done by this lone pioneer has become so definite and actual that it can no longer hide under a basket.

The missionary is Miss Amy C. Chadwick who, nearly 30 years ago, came to America from England to study for religious service. Somehow she came to Atlanta and found an orphan's home in an old army barracks, both of which were falling to pieces.

Her Labors Here.
Fortunately, it seems, the home also found Miss Chadwick because for 20 years she has fed and clothed an average of 60 children with no other backing save her own faith and staunch spirit. She has provided "an institution with a heart."

"This, like the other mystery of how she manages to house those 60 small lively people in that little building is something which only heaven and Miss Chadwick understand. But then, if you have ever visited the home and met Miss Chadwick, and seen her with her children you know that heaven and Miss Chadwick understand a lot of things the rest of us don't know about at all."

Like the proverbial little mother she has kept the home together through thick and thin, but she has not been so lucky with the house. A taken to the use of cigarettes in large quantities.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 25.—The world war has caused a 200 per cent increase in cigarette consumption both in this country and abroad, said J. T. Corbett, secretary of the Tobacco Association of the United States now holding its 20th annual convention here.

This increase Corbett lays to the fact that cigars and pipes were unavailable among fighting forces and the cigarette habit became general. In addition to this—war women have taken to the use of cigarettes in large quantities.

THE "LOAVES AND FISHES."

The present sensational and unwholesome political situation existing in the state department of agriculture emphasizes the contentment that The Constitution has repeatedly made—that is, that the employees of this and other state governmental service branches should be by law under a rigid civil service, or merit system, and thus divorced from politics, political influences, and bloc or machine participation.

It has been charged for years that the commissioner of agriculture had built up a great and powerful "political machine" that could be thrown into gear in any campaign year, not only for his own perpetuation in office, but for the making or the unmaking of other aspirants for office—thus destroying the ideals of popular government as interpreted by the tenets of our democratic faith.

Whether that statement is true or not is not the issue. We do know that the law itself provides a great army of oil and fertilizer and milk and honey and various other "inspectors" in Georgia, directly under the department of agriculture, fixing high compensations for little or no work, reaching into every county, and indirectly into every militia district, and giving to the commissioner of agriculture the arbitrary power to appoint and to discharge, without recourse to any other ratifying agency.

This fact—chargeable directly to the law, and therefore to the legislature—has made it possible, of course, to create a political machine, just as has been accredited to the commissioner.

Now the so-called "machine" is split wide open, the cogs, heretofore geared for harmonious operation, being set in opposite direction.

That the fight appears to be too apparent to discuss—but what a political situation it discloses!

The state department of agriculture should be entirely divorced from politics.
It is wholly unnecessary to have the great army of "inspectors" that we have in Georgia. It is a drain upon the taxpayers that is inexorable. It is the basis of a political situation that is destructive to the best interests of the state. Other states do not have them in such numbers, and under such loose regulations as to work and pay. But the responsibility rests with the legislature.

The civil service regulation applied to every department—and applied with teeth—will be the first step—and the candidate for commissioner who takes this position, and who extends the most emphatic assurance that he will urge a revolution in the managerial methods of this department will go a long way toward strengthening himself before the public.

TIMELY WARNING.

The warning of Assistant Attorney General Donovan to the New York bankers against overdoing the present tendency toward industrial combinations and mergers is timely.
There is no question as to the wisdom of combining capital for greater accomplishments that only greater capital can accomplish. Nor for combining in order to reduce overhead expenses, to eliminate overlapping and to produce greater efficiency in production and distribution. These are fundamentals in the laws of economics.

But industrial consolidations for the purpose of controlling output, increasing prices to consumers and restraining trade through the elimination of competition, cannot be justified.

The Sherman law is supposed to prevent such combinations. It does not always do so, however, as illustrated in the combinations controlling the output of gasoline.

It is timely that the government should keep a close watch upon such possible purposes, and of all groups the bankers should be vigi-lous in upholding the spirit of the anti-trust law, for it is only by the welfare of all the people—the overwhelming majority of whom are consumers—that economic conditions can be kept sound and healthy.

The warning comes at a most opportune time because the tendency of the hour toward these mergers is disturbing unless the public is made to understand that its interests will be rigidly protected.

OUR OWN "BOBBY."

Atlanta's own Bobby Jones, in winning the British open golf championship at the St. Anne's course Friday, became the world's greatest golfer, and brings to America the most coveted prize of this nature in the world.

England is the historic home of this ancient and honorable game,
and Bobby Jones, in winning over professionals of the old and new worlds, accomplished a feat in sportsmanship that makes his home city of Atlanta the golf capital of the globe.

He has given to his city and state a publicity that could not have been bought for millions—and his masterful golf is only in keeping with the high type of young manhood that Atlanta seeks to capture this marvelous trophy.

Preparations are being made throughout America to extend to this young Atlanta champion a welcome upon his return to New York such as befits the great honor won by him upon his own golfing merits.

Atlanta will naturally lead in that great demonstration of welcome with a large and enthusiastic delegation to greet him at the pier.

Atlanta loves Bobby Jones and has every good reason for doing so. It was because of this, and because of the faith it had in his golfing ability to bring back the major prize of the golfing world, that The Constitution was the first American newspaper to announce that it would send a member of its staff to England with him. It interpreted the will of its readers to know of Bobby Jones' playing at the birthplace of golf from its own staff writer, and in its faith in the ultimate results it voiced the faith and the love of all of Atlanta and Georgia and the south—if not, indeed, of all of America.

HAUGEN BILL DEFEAT.

The defeat Thursday afternoon of the Haugen "farm relief" bill in the senate saved the president the political embarrassment of vetoing it
—for that is what he intended to do according to those close to the white house. On the other hand its defeat by a margin of only six votes illustrated the overwhelming sentiment in congress for some kind of practical, constructive farm relief legislation. The Haugen bill was undoubtedly extreme, yet in the anxiety to carry relief, particularly to the grain belt, by a definite control of surplus, it had the support of some of the ablest men of both parties in the country—among them
Vice President Dawes, former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, and many others. It had the support of many eastern and western democrats, and in its various amendments it was refashioned in the hope to reach the cotton production belt, and at one time was supposed to have had the support of the southern senators.
Some of its radical features, however, did not appeal to the southerners, and they are responsible for its defeat.

It is now probable that a modified bill may be introduced and pushed to enactment before the session closes—a measure that will find approval at the white house, and yet carry in a measure the practical relief the Haugen bill sought without its paternalistic features. The "equalization fee" principle is not favorable to the cotton belt, nor to the people of the country on the whole except perhaps in a prescribed territory in the north and northwest.

That the government should assist in controlling the surpluses of the six major farm commodities there can be no argument. But to fix another system of production tariff, and to further open credit gates, all without providing more adequate means of commodity production, stability of market prices, and regulation of distribution, would hardly bring about the real relief that is so much demanded.

The protective tariff is a burden upon the farmer without doing him any good in his production and marketing.

If congress would help the farmer
by the elimination of troubles and obstructions rather than by piling them up—by reducing rather than by adding to his assessments and obligations—perhaps a greater good would result.

If you haven't noticed that the sun's light is dying out, don't worry; for it may be a couple of million years yet before the price of gas and electricity will be out of sight.

"Just a warning of you,

Restless—dunno what to do,
Just a warning of you!"

"Keep a-hoping, day by day,

the long rows and even the trees send their roots deeper into the earth in

And then comes the rain!"

Of Auto-Train Crash

Macon, Ga., June 25.—(AP)—Joint
funeral services will be held Saturday
morning at a country church near here over the bodies of the two victims
of a grade crossing wreck that occurred five miles south of Macon late Thursday.

S. G. Crawford and Claude Graham,
the victims, were on their way to the
swamp for an evening's fishing.

According to evidence in a coroner's inquest that began this morning, the train failed to stop at the railroad
crossing, which is "Y" both ways.

The engineer, R. H. Smith, testified that he could not see the road in the direction and that although he blew for the crossing his right of
the automobile, a light touring car,
was when it emerged to be struck
squarely in the center of the tracks.

The Lights of the Atlantic

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Nearing Cherbourg—The purser is busy changing dollars into francs, the decks are deserted and so is the swimming pool. Everybody is getting ready for the dawn ashore. There is a faint gleam of gray on the luminous horizon. It is France. This morning early we passed by the coast of Ireland. We could not see it, but the gentleman from Daytona Beach thought he could detect the appetizing odor of corned beef and cabbage.

Most passengers are mixed up already in their monetary values. This is a British ship and the postoffice sells you British stamps. What with pounds, shillings, pence, florins, sixpence pieces, while most people had calculated on dealing with francs, it makes quite a problem.

A little boat comes alongside and some French officials are on board.
They are polite, affable and apparently glad to see you. They forget your questions by supplying information, voluntarily. They all speak English. They make the tourist folks feel they are on a holiday, that is to say, they make things pleasant.

The boat train is waiting. Finally we are aboard. The station master in frock coat comes out and blows a whistle. The chief conductor answers him with two short blasts.
Next he blows to the engineer. The latter answers with another two shrill blasts.

"How different from America," says
the Pittsburgh girl.
"Yes," says the English lord, "there is a vast difference, you know."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

The French
Cure.
The war has provided the stage in England with many new types. One of them is the French Cure. He has fought in the trenches, and his trenchant criticisms of war profiteers, night life in Paris and ungodliness generally are mixed up with war slang that is wholly natural in his speech. There are several plays running in London of this nature. When the cardinal champions one cure against his accusers, he is asked, more or less as a favor to the church, to moderate his language. "Eminence," he replies, as the curtain comes down, "you can put your nose in the air and sniff, but the cure plays a new role in the life of the people. He has mixed with the soldiers and the soldiers have learned to regard him as a man. The result is a great deal less of that acrimonious anti-clerical-ism that embittered French and Belgian village life before the war.

Perplexing
Margot.
A puzzling incident took place the other day. Margot Asquith refused to talk for publication. The much-advertised and eccentric Margot, who showed no reluctance to tell Americans of the mild escapades which a modern schoolgirl would consider silly, and of her love for a young man in London whom she has always known, has suddenly become a shrinking violet. But there may be a reason after all. A young man, young Mr. Asquith, was invited to a soiree where several prominent paragraphs and columnists were present. He expected the evening meal should be called supper and the midday meal dinner. The editor of The Dawson News sizes up the situation about right when he says that he wants his breakfast at 7 in the evening, dinner at 12 and supper
at 6:30.

On the Way.
Give us light to see the way,
Hear to feel the tug of the day,
For the glory of the day,
Strength to keep a-livin'.

Brother Williams.
If we'd jes' help ourselves some, we wouldn't be all time axin Providence
ter come ter de rescue.

Rites Near Macon
Today for Two Victims
Of Auto-Train Crash

Macon, Ga., June 25.—(AP)—Joint
funeral services will be held Saturday
morning at a country church near
here over the bodies of the two victims
of a grade crossing wreck that occurred five miles south of Macon late Thursday.

S. G. Crawford and Claude Graham,
the victims, were on their way to the
swamp for an evening's fishing.

According to evidence in a coroner's
inquest that began this morning, the
train failed to stop at the railroad
crossing, which is "Y" both ways.

The engineer, R. H. Smith, testified
that he could not see the road in the
direction and that although he
blew for the crossing his right of
the automobile, a light touring car,
was when it emerged to be struck
squarely in the center of the tracks.

Looking and Listening

BY SAM W. SMALL.

A patriotic lady, Mrs. Black, of Rock Springs, asked in The Constitution yesterday, "Has love of country and respect for the flag gone into the discard along with much which we have heretofore regarded as essential to decency?"

It is a painful thing to do, but as an expert observer I am compelled to tell her that they have.

There is only one city in America that I know of where the flag is treated with less respect than in Springfield, Ill., the home of Abraham Lincoln.

There is much ado just now about the sad plight of the farmer and the failure of the congress to come to his relief. The average farmer protests to more about practical politics than he does about scientific and successful farming. With the greatest voting power of any class in the population the farmers allow themselves to be driven by the politicians like sheep to the shearing grounds. They have only themselves to blame. They are the victims of their own folly in supporting a system of so-called "protection" that enables the manufacturers to buy farm products at low prices and sell their own wares to the farmers at the highest prices the world knows. So long as they support the tariff they will continue to be like Lazarus at the door of Dives.

Men talk with me every day about the Georgia politics in a way that gives me a pain the whole length of my spine. Really we have no politics in Georgia. Politics is defined as "the science of government." Any body knows of any scientist of that sort in the state today I would like to have a squirt at the critter. What some are pleased to call "our politics"
is nothing more than the juggling gestures of provincial politicians hunting jobs and juicy perquisites out of official orchards.

I wish that God would give Georgia
another Samson like Aleck Stephens, who lifted the gates of Gaza in the eighth district, behind which county cavaliers were conspiring, and "toted his skinned through them to the national congress."

I wish He would give us one more sturdy Ben Hill, who kicked open the courthouse "bull pen" and sent the district and walked over the penalty bullwhackers to Washington, where he became the premier democrat of either house or senate in his day.

I wish He would raise up among us another Parson Felton, who refused to bow the knee to the priests of Baal in the seventh district and vocalized Georgia patriotism and un-terrible democracy, albeit as an "Independent," until we could select thoroughbred young race to take the track from the veteran two-miler.

But "them days is gone forever," it seems. In our political world today there is very little board-lumber in sight. Our education is running down to professional and vocational experts and the knowledge of the fundamentals and formulas of statesmanship is negligible throughout the state. Anyhow, if I could it all looks to me. If you see it in better lights, I congratulate you!

PASTOR WILLEAT
HIS STRAW HAT
IF SERMON FAILS

Columbus, Junction, Ia., June 25.—
The Rev. Loren Pecaut will eat his straw hat at a downtown intersection
if he can't prove that the Bible is the Word of God.

The test of the evangelist's oratorical powers will be made Sunday at the union evangelist services at Trinity Reformed church. The audience will judge whether Pecaut proves his contention.

And should he fail, the straw hat
will be eaten at the corner of Ninth and Main streets at 10 a. m. Monday.

Arkansas Reports
Anthrax Outbreak
In Two Counties

Little Rock, Ark., June 25.—(AP)—
A severe outbreak of anthrax in Cross and Arkansas counties, which distributed to Dr. J. H. Bux, state veterinarian, and quarantines were issued against the affected areas.

In addition to quarantining the affected area, Dr. Bux issued an order against passage of live stock from the infected territory over public highways or through contagious diseases.

An order against shipment by railroad was also included as a result of occurrences two years ago when during an outbreak of anthrax, shipments were made from infected areas to St. Louis, and the disease was discovered there. This resulted in the state being quarantined.

An investigation and survey is being made in an effort to determine the extent of the outbreak, and a report will be made in two or three days, Dr. Bux said.

OFFICER LOSES ARM FROM SHOT
FIRED BY FARMER

Sumter, S. C., June 25.—(AP)—W. T.
Hough, 45, special officer for Sumter county, lost his left arm early today
when he was fired on by Laurence Youmans, farmer and lumberman of Fairfax. The shooting occurred in the Waterway swamp, 18 miles from Sumter on the Columbia road.

Youmans fired on Hough and Alec Norris, rural policeman, when the two officers tried to stop him and his companion, Ivey Adams, young Fairfax man, on suspicion of their being liquor runners. The shooting took place about 3 o'clock this morning. Hough was taken to a hospital immediately,
where it was found necessary to amputate his left arm above the elbow.
His condition was reported as being favorable at the hospital today.

Policemen Dollard, Norris, Boykin and Hough went to the swamp some time before the shooting, having information that a liquor car was coming through. Dollard and Boykin walked down the road some distance and left Hough and Norris at the edge of the swamp, where they placed a red lantern to halt all motor cars coming past.

When the car bearing Youmans and Adams approached, according to the officers, Youmans opened fire before he was stopped, and fired three times, a lead of buckshot striking Hough in the arm.

The motorists did not try to escape and were taken to the county jail where Youmans is now being held without bail to await the outcome of Hough's wound. Adams was released later. No liquor was found in the automobile.

FLORIDA CITIZEN

of Daytona Beach, entered St. Luke's hospital here seeking treatment for numerous injuries about the body. He stated he had been floored by a mob and asked for details. His injuries are not serious.

Mrs. Coon, wife of a injured man, and she was forced to flee from the
in the office of a husband at Daytona Beach as being the instigator of the flooding. This man, whose name she refused to divulge, was recently discharged, she stated.

Crackers Drop Double-Header to Nashville

Vols Win First Tilt After Ten Innings, 4 to 3; Second, 7 to 3

Atlanta Puts Up Hard Battle in Vain Attempt to Defeat Visiting Clan in Series Opener—Fast Fielding Features Vols' Playing.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Well, after having fished some of the most brilliant baseball ever seen in the Southern league, after having won two baseball games from the hard-fighting Birmingham Barons, the Crackers came right back and lost a pair of contests Friday at Spiller park to the Nashville Volunteers. They battled hard for the first one, which traveled to innings before Jimmy Hamilton's visiting warriors were able to drag out a victory, 4 to 3, but the second, a seven-inning tussle, was a massacre of the champions, the Vols winning, 7 to 3. Cavet, who started the game, fortunately got away without a defeat having been charged to him. That goes to Ruel Love, who relieved him. Tom Rogers lost the second without any assistance.

The Crackers again were glittering on defense. Haas, Niehaus and Tom Griffith contributing sparkling plays. Their attack also was good, but it was not concentrated. Frey was not in any danger of losing the first game except in the eighth, when he yielded three hits for a pair of runs, and Tiny Osborne was absolutely master of the situation after the first inning.

Nashville Outbatt. Although outbatt in the first contest the Nashville team concentrated its blows where they did the most good and took full advantage of a slip by Durocher to score the tying tally. He advanced Camp a base after that player had singled, by throwing badly to Cavet after receiving Griffith's throw from the outfield. It is doubtful, however, if the play really allowed the tying run, for Bates immediately followed with a double which might have scored Camp—as it did from second.

The Crackers went after the game in the very first inning, scoring a run after Cavet had turned back the Hamilton crew with a single hit. Durocher, first up, was safe when McLarry dropped Partridge's throw. He continued to second when the ball rolled to the stand and scored on Niehoff's single.

The Vols came back in the second with a pair of runs. Camp was thrown out, but Bates, Redfern and Mackey singled in succession, driving Bates across. Then Niezke popped to Niehaus, but Rogers delivered a hit to score Redfern. Partridge flied out to end the inning.

A Ding-Dong Affair. From there on the battle was a ding-dong affair. The Crackers hit safely in every inning except the ninth, but were unable to send any runners across until the eighth, when they forged to the lead by tallying twice. With one out, Good beat out a hit to short and took third when Griffith followed with a knock to right. Niehaus fouled to Mackey and Griffith took second in an attempt to draw a throw. Jones, who caused the hero of the minute and a very short minute by lamming a single to left, scoring both Good and Griffith.

The joy of the fans was short. The Vols came right back to win the game. Camp led off with a single. Griffith threw the ball to Durocher, who threw badly to Cavet and the ball rolled away. Camp going to second, from where he registered the tying run on a double by Bates. Redfern sacrificed, putting Bates on third, and Mr. Love entered the hall game. He retired Mackey and Kenna, who batted for Niezke, on six pitched balls.

The visitors polished off their performance by winning in the tenth when Frey walked, advanced to second and third, and scored on Camp's blow to center.

Four Doubles Plays. The Vols helped Frey along no little by executing four double plays. The Crackers also started the second contest with something of an embattled nature, scoring runs like a big margin. Durocher, first up, was passed and Muls Haas, after Niehoff had popped out, turned loose a prodigious clout over center field for three bases, sending Durocher home ahead of him. Haas also scored when Partridge let a shot throw get away from him. And right there the Cracker scoring became null and void until the final inning, the seventh, in which Muls Haas, who batted for Rogers, registered a run on a single by Durocher and a sacrifice by Niehoff.

The Vols counted one in the first, two in the third, three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

In the first Partridge, first up, was passed. McLarry scored with a sacrifice. Ruble was thrown out, but Camp came along with a single to score Partridge.

Pennant To Be Kept. With one out in the third Partridge singled. He took second on McLarry's single and scored when Ruble poked a long one to center. McLarry reaching third, from where he scored while Camp was forcing Ruble.

Bates, first up in the fifth, singled and took second when Redfern sacrificed. Kenna got an infield hit which Griffith barely reached with his bare hand, placing Bates on third.

Both scored when Bates doubled and Sikes scored when Osborne followed with a hit which bounced off Bert Niehoff's foot.

With one down in the fifth Camp singled and took second on Bates' infield out, scoring on Redfern's single.

Nashville again will be the Cracker opponent today, the game starting at 2:30 o'clock. The 1925 pennant will be raised at 2:15 o'clock, immediately preceding the ball game.

Here are photographs of a grateful Atlanta Athletic club's tribute to two of its hardest and most loyal workers—Scott Hudson, president, and Al Doonan, athletic director.

The photograph at the top shows on the right a silver service presented to Mr. Hudson in consideration of his work in bringing the club out of debt and building the fine town and country clubhouses. The table at the right shows a smaller service presented to Mr. Doonan.

A photo of several pieces presented to Mr. Hudson is shown at the bottom. Presentation was made Friday night at a dinner given at the new Atlanta Athletic clubhouse.

Long Service of Two Leading Figures in Club's History Praised by Citizens.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

A sandy-haired, unassuming little man sat at a great dinner in the mammoth dining room of the new Atlanta Athletic club Friday night and heard his virtues extolled by leading members of the south's greatest social and athletic organization and then rose to his feet and denied that he was deserving of the eulogies.

That is a picture of Scott Hudson, the guiding figure behind the construction of Atlanta's newest monument to its never-ending trend of achievement.

Never was a great leader paid higher tribute as the fruit of labor than was Scott Hudson Friday night while hundreds rose to their feet and cheered him in the history of the Atlanta Athletic club.

And seated near Mr. Hudson at the table of honor was another leading figure in the history of the Atlanta Athletic club to whom no less tribute was paid. Al Doonan, athletic director, for the club from the time it was a struggling little society, has in the days of a decade ago, shared the spotlight with his leader.

Green Silver Services. The object of the dinner was to present to Mr. Hudson and Mr. Doonan two beautiful silver services as tokens of appreciation for their efforts in the building of the new club and the lights from the great chandelier shone down on the hundreds of pieces of precious metal one was impressed with the magnitude of the work held for these two leaders in the hearts of many hundreds who did their parts in making possible the presentation.

Engine Black, toastmaster, sounded the keynote when he said: "The Atlanta Athletic club will never be able to pay these two men for their unselfish service to the club, not only in the giving of their time and money, but in the furtherance of its every undertaking in the organization of their personalities which are built into every brick and emulsified on every stone of this great new building."

In his presentation of the huge silver service to Mr. Hudson, Lowry retold the history of the club from its inception in 1898 and from the time the idea of the club had its birth 28 years ago until the present, every milestone being marked with the name of Scott Hudson.

Club's History Given. "Back in the days when the East Lake golf course was but a dream," said Mr. Arnold, "Scott Hudson was out at daybreak watching and working men make what is now one of the greatest golf courses in the nation. A golf course on which a youngster teed off in his first game not so many years ago and today placed Atlanta before the eyes of all the world by winning the most coveted golfing crown in all the world—the British open championship. That boy is Bobby Jones and to him and Scott Hudson is due unending praise for their respective parts in placing the Atlanta Athletic club foremost in the list of great institutions."

To Al Doonan was given the credit of making the Atlanta Athletic club a leader in the athletic life of the nation and the world. Henry Hines, who represented the club in presenting the second silver service to Mr. Doonan, brought the dinner to the close by his praises of the "big man who has given his all to the work of the club during the last decade."

As the words of praise rang through the great dining room they were drowned in the applause from hundreds of hands. Never have two leaders been more highly honored by their fellows than were these two men of the Atlanta club at the home warming Friday night.

JONES HAILED AS 'EMPEROR' OF GOLF BY GOTHAM PAPERS

New York, June 25.—(Special.)—New York's editorial writers were in accord this morning in their rejoicing over Bobby Jones' splendid victory in winning the British open championship.

The New York Times, under the caption, "Emperor Jones of the Links," comments as follows: "All the superlatives already have been exhausted on the golf game of 'Bobby' Jones. When the competent English critic, Bernard Darwin, calls him the best golfer in the world, it is not for Americans to say him nay. Nor was his crowning triumph in winning yesterday the British open championship necessary to establish his right to the title. His record for the past few years is without a parallel. Other players have had their ups and downs, but Robert Jones, American, has been the first British open champion since he was won by an amateur before, but never by an American."

"Considering the difficulties which any foreigner must encounter on British links, together with the severe physical and mental strain involved in playing 108 holes of golf consecutively under an average of four, the achievement of young Mr. Jones is outstanding and unequalled in all the records of golf. There would seem to be nothing left for him now, with no more worlds to conquer, but to throw away his clubs and retire to a monastery. The Jones victory has been popular in England, where he has commended himself not only by his extraordinary style but also by his unassuming demeanor."

"But there remains something bitter in the British golfing cup. In the open championship the Americans were first, and the flower of English and Scottish golfers nowhere. The best English professional was able only to tie for fifth place. The old-fashioned clubman, who is seldom used nowadays, its place has been taken by the spoon. But it is evident that the British will now feel that they need an uncommonly long spoon if they are going to sup with American golfers."

Herald Tribune Tribute. The Herald Tribune editorial writer under the caption, "A Popular Golf Victory," voices the following: "There could be no more popular victory than that of Bobby Jones in the British open golf championship. In the golfing world the young American has established himself as the greatest of all players and the finest of sportsmen. His marvelous record over a period of years shows him to be one of the most consistent of the game has ever known. Among British players of modern times, he takes place with John Ball and Harry Hilton, two of Great Britain's famous amateurs, and Harry Vardon, James Braid and J. H. Taylor, the professional triumvirate which dominated the game before the war."

"This has been America's greatest year in British golf and our amateur players distinguished themselves beyond all anticipations. Jess Sweetser has won the British amateur championship, the American team has retained possession of the Walker cup, and now three other Americans, one an amateur, have won the Jones' medal, strokes ahead of their British rivals. No previous invasion has resulted in anything approximating the sweeping successes gained this year."

Praised by Golf Officials. Golf officials of the United States Golf association, the metropolitan district and golfers generally were highly elated with Bobby Jones' victory in the British open championship. "I think that it is a splendid thing," said H. Y. Barrow, president of the Metropolitan Golf association, that not only the greatest golfer in the world has triumphed, but even more important is the fact that such a splendid sportsman, one whose hat still fits his head, has reached the peak."

"The English have been very generous in the treatment of our men and very graceful in acknowledging the ability of the Americans, and I hope that when it comes our turn to lose some championships to the British we will be just as graceful in our defeat. The English have taken their loss with a smile and have once again proved themselves great sportsmen. Very enthusiastic was Wynant D. Vanderpool, former president of the United States Golf association, over Jones' victory."

"Bobby's triumph is the finest thing that I can imagine for golf both in this country and abroad, for a real sportsman, gentleman, and fine golfer has won the tournament. I am tickled to death."

"It was most happy to hear of Jones' wonderful conquest," said Charles H. Sahlin, treasurer of the United States Golf association. "Merit will tell, and it is always the best player who comes to the fore. I feel sure that the English will be satisfied with the result, for an amateur has won, and the British has a certain dislike for the professional and a great respect for the amateur. It will be a very popular victory."

Hudkins Kayoes Ruby Goldstein

New York, June 25.—(P)—Ace Hudkins, Omaha lightweight, knocked out Ruby Goldstein, of New York, in the fourth round of a six-round match at the Coney Island stadium tonight. The weights were: Hudkins, 135, Goldstein, 134-12.

A left to the jaw sent Goldstein down for the full count after two short counts in the fourth. Goldstein started off well by sending Hudkins to the canvas for a count of three in the first round, which he took by a wide margin.

Brilliant Playing Brings Two Stars Together in Finals

Play Will Start At 3 O'Clock At Piedmont Park—Fourth Round Will Be Reached in Doubles With Several Fast Teams Competing.

Two of the city's best tennis players, Jack Simpson, playing through champion, and Jack Mooney, former champion, will meet in the finals of the city tennis tournament today at Piedmont park at 3 o'clock. Playing some of the most brilliant tennis ever seen in Atlanta the two favorites came through the matches to battle each other in the finals.

The meeting of Simpson and Mooney had been predicted long before the tourney had got under way by other players as well as local tennis experts.

Simpson came through the play in the upper bracket by defeating Moss, Everett and Cramm, while Mooney battled his way through the lower half of the bracket by eliminating Potucek, Campbell and Boland.

Meets Tough Foe. In the semi-final match Friday Simpson met one of the toughest opponents of the tournament when he faced Malon Courts, who is no mean player. This match was the hardest fought one of the tourney, judging from every angle. Courts played a sparkling game, while Simpson was doing the same, and by being more experienced in the game, he won out over a fighting Malon Courts. The score was 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

Jack Mooney found the going a little more easier in his match, which he won, 6-3, 6-0. The match, however, was harder fought than the score might indicate, as both stars played practically the same style of tennis.

The fourth round in the doubles will be reached today either before or after the championship match. Gault and Chambers have already reached the fourth round by playing their match Friday afternoon, 6-1, 7-5. The Knox-Rice combination had an easy time in their match with Enlow and Lewis, winning, 6-2, 6-2, to continue their winning streak.

Sixth Straight Win. Yale's triumph in the struggle that brought the 50th regatta to a climax came after Harvard had broken the grip of Bulldog supremacy by winning the two preliminary races in the morning for the first time since 1922.

The Crimson's husky freshmen trounced Yale's makeshift yearling boat by three lengths in the first race, after which the junior varsity eight from Cambridge outgamed and outraced their Eli rivals to win by two lengths, both victories coming in two-mile tests.

Yale's triumphant reign thus was at stake as the crews paddled in the gathering dusk to the starting mark of the varsity classic, but the convincing manner of the Eli's closing victory was characteristic of the tradition of supremacy they have set up under the coaching guidance of Ed Leader.

The Blue victory not only saved the day but marked the sixth straight time Harvard has been vanquished in the varsity race here, an achievement which equals the best previous record in the long history of the regatta. Once before, from 1900 to 1905 Yale enjoyed a six-year stretch of triumph while Harvard from 1905 to 1913 duplicated this feat.

Xale, too, celebrated tonight her fourth straight year of unbroken triumph in varsity competition under Leader's guidance, a record which has no parallel in modern college rowing and few rivals anywhere in the annals of the sport. In that span of time the Eli varsity combinations have rolled up 15 victories over opponents at home and abroad.

Double Match Tied. The Dillard-Mozely and Corrie-Courts match was tied six all when the match was called for the day. They will finish the battle today. This match furnished plenty of thrills for the spectator, as it was a real battle.

Owing to the fact that Bryant Grant was ordered out of the tournament by a doctor, the Boland-Boland team won their match on default.

They will battle the Simpson-Mooney combination in their match this afternoon. This promises to be one of the hottest fought matches of the tournament, and spectators are favoring the champion and his partner to come through to victory. Simpson and Mooney won their last match, 6-1, 6-2.

The other doubles match will see Thornton and Reybold playing Everett and Armstrong. Thornton and Reybold found their latest opponents in a very friendly mood and took the match, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5, after a game fight on both sides. This match finds the oldest and youngest players in the tournament paired with each other, and it is a real combination in the doubles, as both players are well up on the game.

Pitcher Rosey Ryan Is Sent to Toledo. Wilfred ("Rosey") Ryan has finally stepped down as a big leaguer. The former Holy Cross pitcher could not win for the Boston Braves and was released to Toledo of the American Association last week. The Braves got him from the New York Giants more than a year ago.

Bobby Jones Wins British Open Golf Crown

Atlanta Star Shoots Great Game To Win Over Brilliant Field

U. S. Amateur Champion Turns in Aggregate Score of 291 For 72 Holes of Play—Comes From Behind Big Field To Take Coveted English Title.

thrilling finishes, which for once failed to develop. Melhorn, who led with Jones yesterday, passed away with a lead of 10 holes in the morning. Watrous at the same time slipped into first place to lead Jones by two strokes, while Hagen was fourth behind the leader with 219 before the final round started.

Expert strokes should have come from the clubs of Hagen in this situation, but the heavy schedule of tournament, match and exhibition play which he had carried out in this country evidently affected even his great genius and, although it was not certain until the very last hole that he was beaten, a victory would have been a remarkable accomplishment. He needed an eagle two at the 340-yard eighteenth, but a six decorated his card. It was evident throughout the tournament that Hagen remained popular following his late reporting in his recent challenge match with Abe Mitchell.

For Jones, it was a case of coming to England and remaining to conquer after his elimination in the amateur championship at Muirfield, which Jess Sweetser, a fellow American, won so bravely. Once previously, in 1921, as a raw, impetuous golfing youth, Jones invaded England and did his share to win the Walker cup, but tore up his card in the third round of the open event at St. Andrews.

Butlers, however, voted the Atlanta a fine golfer, according to his reputation in the United States, but he wanted to prove conclusively that he could "shoot par," and, after caring tenderly for the stricken Sweetser during the final hours of his stay in England, Bobby went back to the golf course and prepared for the great contest from which today he emerged victor.

There was a tense suspense after Jones and Watrous had finished their round, with the possibility of a dramatic finish, such as Hagen is noted for.

But the magician was without his wand, and instead of the birdies needed for his 71 to win or 72 to tie Jones, Sir Walter took a four at the par three 15th, par four at the next two, and finished with a poor six at the 18th for 76.

Jones' four rounds of 72-72-73-74 for a total of 291, coupled with his record-breaking qualifying rounds of 66-64-134, form one of the most remarkable aggregates in golfing history, and his total is the lowest since 1908, when Jim Braid won at Walton Heath with 291.

The trophy goes to the United States for the fifth time. It was first captured by a golfer from America in 1921 when Jock Hutchison won. Walter Hagen was victorious in 1922 and again in 1924 while Long Jim Barnes won last year.

Jones finished ahead of Watrous when he shot 74 for an aggregate of 291. Watrous slipped and took 75 for 293, after leading the field at noon. Jones and Watrous had fought their way to the turn in the afternoon in 36 each. Hagen had their figures as he started his last round and went out to catch them with all his well-known fighting powers.

Hagen played the first four holes, 3-4-4-4, thus recovering one stroke on Watrous up to that point. Jones had played them in fifteen strokes, the same as Hagen.

Walter Hears From Bobby. Hagen played the first hole in a perfect three. At the second, his 15-yard putt for a birdie three rimmed the cup and he took a four. As he holed the putt word came down the fairway from the immense gallery following Jones and Watrous that the latter had lost a stroke to the amateur champion after the turn, Watrous having 5-0-4 for the tenth, eleventh and twelfth to Jones' 4-6-4.

Bobby Jones, American amateur champion, was two strokes behind at noon, taking 73 for an aggregate of 217. Jones struggled heroically and his score was remarkable considering the difficulties he encountered.

The secret of Watrous' performance was deadly accuracy near the green and perfect putting touch. He failed only once to get down in two putts and that on the long eleventh.

The veteran, J. H. Taylor, leading the British returns, had a poor 79 in the morning for an aggregate of 223. This also was the aggregate of Bill Melhorn, who had a poor 79 in the morning after leading the field with Bobby Jones at the end of yesterday's play.

Leaving the 10th tee with Watrous Jones picked up a stroke on the 17th green and another at the home hole, the professional taking two fives to Jones' fours.

A gallery of 4,000 saw the finish of the gruelling battle in which neither of the two young Americans was able

BOBBY JONES MAKES BRILLIANT RISE TO WORLD FAME

The World's Greatest Golfer—Of Atlanta

Photos by Herbert Photos, Inc.

Here are two pictures of Bobby Jones and one of another trophy he is bringing home to display among other cups at the East Lake Country club. At the left is Bob when he first flashed into prominence at the age of 15 years, when, playing over East Lake's course he won the southern amateur golf championship. In the center is a picture of "Wee Rab," as Scotch called him, as he appears today. At the right is reproduced the cup emblematic of the British open golf championship.

BOBBY CREDITS LUCK FOR WIN

St. Anne's, England, June 25. "This is one of the happiest days of my life," Bobby Jones said as the championship trophy was presented to him. "I was terribly lucky to get away with it."

General Toppin, St. Anne's trustee officiating at the ceremony, was interrupted by frequent outbursts of applause as Jones' name was mentioned.

"Such excellent golf as Sweetser and Jones displayed deserved to win them the British titles they have carried off," Toppin said. "We do not begrudge them the honor; we envy them."

to gain ascendancy until the finish was within sight.

Both drove perfectly at the home hole. Watrous second was bunkered to the left, while Bobby's was safe, 15 feet from the pin.

With full knowledge from previous experience of Walter Hagen's wonderful powers of recovery, the crowd took Jones' 291 as the winning score, and no man among the Americans in the championship could be a more popular victor.

Loudly after round of applause greeted Bobby, who modestly doffed his brown cap.

Then the ubiquitous young British autograph hounds rushed up to the ropes and Bobby began signing his name to cards and books thrust at him.

Watrous played the home hole courageously. His drive was bunkered. Then his second soared high and dropped into another sand pit, hole high, but left of the green.

Jones plumped his perfect second a few feet from the hole and it rolled 18 feet beyond, to the top of a slight mound in the green.

The putt was a difficult one. Bobby surveyed it as calmly as if it were nothing but an every day practice round he was playing. He tapped a little too gently, and the ball stopped two feet short of the cup. He walked up and sank it.

When he looked up he found Watrous' hand extended in congratulation.

Slips Away From Crowd. Jones slipped quietly away from the crowd as soon as the autograph enthusiasts would let him, and went to the clubhouse. There he rested, while friends who had traveled with him from the United States stood on the second floor gallery and with field glasses surveyed the great golfing plain. In the distance marched Walter Hagen and his army, striving vainly to score the 71 needed to win over Bobby.

Hagen tried valiantly, but could do no better than a 76 to tie George von Elm, Los Angeles amateur, for third place.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed. There was bright sunshine and only a gentle breeze behind the players.

Bobby Jones, the American amateur champion, got off to a bad start, requiring 37 for the first nine holes. On one of the holes—the 343-yard par four—he required a six.

His card at the ninth hole was 3-5, 6-3, 4-4—37.

Bobby Starts Poorly. Bobby was short of the green on the first, but chipped within two feet of a pin and had a par three. He made a bad bid for a birdie three on the second, his 15-foot putt barely missing the cup. His second shot was an iron was bunkered. He blasted out the ball, however, and was down in two putts for a par five.

The Georgia boy's bad fourth began with a good shot. His second shot up the line, pulled round to the left and the ball dropped into a trap. Bobby blasted it out, but not taking sufficient sand and with very little back force behind the ball, the ball cleared the narrow neck of the green and landed in the tall grass 15 yards away. His fourth shot was weak and the ball rested upon the short grass a foot off the green. From there Jones was in two putts.

Bobby putted for a birdie two on the short fifth. His ball rimmed the cup. His second shot to the treacherous sixth hole, which is surrounded

ALL WRITERS PRAISE JONES IN COMMENT

New York, June 25.—Following is comment by New York newspapers on Bob Jones' victory: Peter Vischer, in New York World. "The stirring victory of Bobby Jones in the British open golf championship tournament brings a richly deserved honor to America's beloved amateur, finest of the world's golfers."

"For those who know Bobby Jones (or, if you will, Robert Tyne Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga.) such vindication as came to him Friday was hardly necessary. Bobby Jones needed no new titles. He is a golfer such as the world has never before seen, king of them all, and an amateur."

"We if you insist that Bobby lost at match play to Walter Hagen in Florida last winter, or that he lost to an unknown British amateur tournament, only a few weeks ago, let it go at that; Bobby Jones is the world's greatest medal player. That's plenty."

"Indeed Bobby Jones is the type of youth (he's still only 24) who wouldn't make any extravagant claims, who probably wouldn't make any claims at all. So his record will have to talk for him; in the past few weeks he has given the golfing world four superlative exhibitions; he beat Robert Harris in the British amateur event; he beat Cyril Tolley in the Walker cup matches; he broke all records with a 66 and a 68 in qualifying for the British open, and finally, he won the open. No golfer before Jones ever has done so much in so short a time."

Will Murphy, in the New York Daily News, hails Bobby Jones' triumph as "one of the greatest victories in the history of American sporting endeavor," and goes on to tell the Atlanta's history thusly:

"Bobby began playing golf as a child, taking the game up when it appeared he would be a weakling all his life. He won his first tournament at the age of eight and when still in short trousers (back in the days before knickerbockers) making a dramatic entry into the American amateur tournament. His progress was slow, however, for he was handicapped by a violent temper, which forced him to fight not only his opponents but himself."

"During the past three years Jones has been supreme among amateurs and the most feared of all by professionals. He won the American open championship once and finished second three times and has won the American amateur crown twice. He has never lost a Walker cup match."

"Jones has a sound game, obviously. Its feature is superb play with wooden clubs. His putting is bold. His iron play is generally consistent, and yet forms the most vulnerable part of his equipment."

"Bobby has achieved a popularity touched by no other American sports champion of the day."

ENGLISH HAIL SERIOUS PLAY BOBBY JONES, WON THE CUP, GREAT GOLFER BARNES SAYS

St. Anne's, England, June 25.—(United News)—The climactic hour of America's golfing triumph and Britain's discontent struck Friday afternoon when Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, won the British open championship and no fewer than seven Americans finished among the first ten.

The young American golfer, amateur champion of the United States, added the British open title to his long list of honors by completing the 72-hole test with an aggregate of 291 strokes, one of the finest performances ever shown in this historic championship.

Jones' victory, hailed by British sportsmen with enthusiasm equaling that of Bobby's American admirers, virtually consummated a clean sweep for the invading forces, who have won the British amateur and open championships and the Walker cup as well.

Following closely after the Atlanta youngster came Al Watrous, the American professional, with an aggregate of 293, and Walter Hagen and George von Elm, each with a total of 295.

BOBBY SORRY BOTHERED BY BIG GALLERY

BY DON SKENE.

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and The Atlanta Journal.)

St. Anne-on-the-Sea, England, June 25.—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., won the British open golf championship this afternoon. His score of 291 only has been equaled once before and he is the first amateur to win the world's greatest golf title since Harold Hilton and the first American amateur ever to win it.

Without the shadow of a doubt, Bobby is the most popular champion ever to win what is considered the world's highest golfing honor. The Scots tonight are acclaiming their "Wee Bobbie" just as heartily as his English, Welsh, Irish, French, Argentine, and American supporters.

Harry Vardon, Ted Ray, Jimmy Braid, Sandy Herd and J. H. Taylor all joined in saying, "the greatest golfer in the world has won the greatest title in the world."

General Topping, former trustee of the club, presented the cup to Bobby in a simple, but impressive ceremony just off the eighteenth green.

"Bobby Jones is an international golfing asset," the white-haired general declared while the police held back the crowd which strained six deep against the ropes to hear every word. "We are sorry to see our cup follow Jess Sweetser's amateur cup across the Atlantic but in this hour of golfing defeat we remember the old maxim, 'the British lose many battles, lose many campaigns, but never lose a war.' We hope that the cups we have lent to Sweetser and Jones return here."

Bobby, amid applause in which "attaboy" of the Americans mingled with the "well played" of the British, accepted the cup and made a short, effective speech punctuated by his boyish smile.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said Jones. "I am terribly lucky to get away with it. I've always dreamed having my name engraved on the same sacred cup with the illustrious names of Vardon, Taylor and other British champions. They call the United States and Britain two different nations, but I do not believe this. We're really one nation. I hope you will forgive me for anything I did today when at two crucial holes the crowd bothered me. I apologize if I was brusque under the strain. I haven't really known what I was doing all day."

England has good youngsters in Boomer, J. H. Jamieson and a few others, but they do not have the chance for international competition which Jones, Francis Ouimet, George von Elm and other Americans on the Walker cup team have.

I think that British golf has gone badly since the war because the youngsters have not had the time to play, whereas our boys are cultivating the greatest interest in the game and are becoming the world's best golfers.

Jones' victory Friday was all the more remarkable because it was only the second time he had competed in the British open. He showed two wonderful rounds. His 191 is one of the finest performances ever flashed in the history of the tournament.

Remarkable Progress Made by Atlanta Boy During Early Years

Young Champion Begins Career At Age of Six and Wins Many Trophies In Spectacular Climb to Highest Peak In Golfdom.

By H. C. HAMILTON.

The greatest heights of golfdom have been reached by Bobby Jones at the tender age of 24 years in spite of the fact that when he first raced this world as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Jones, of Atlanta, he didn't appear to be endowed with any great amount of robust health. In fact, he appeared to be delicate.

But Robert Tyne Jones started at the age of six years to trot around the East Lake course, which was just across the street from the Jones cottage, along with Perry Adair and Bob's father. He learned remarkably fast and showed such promise that professionals both at East Lake and Druid Hills took an uncommon interest in him.

Bob played his first real competitive golf in 1915 when, at the age of 13, he qualified in the invitation tournament at Montgomery, Ala., and lasted two rounds before being put out, but in the same year he won the Georgia state championship and held the title two years.

He entered the southern championship tournament in Birmingham in 1916 and came through victorious over a brilliant field.

The Atlanta youth sprang to national prominence in 1919 when, at the age of 17, he beat every player in the national amateur tournament at the Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, except S. Davidson Heron, the Pittsburgher, who won the title that year. Bob lost to Heron, 5 up and 4 to play.

From that period when the youngest began to amaze the golfing world by the beautiful poetry of his motion, the perfect style with every shot, and to charm everyone with whom he came in contact, his march through the halls of golf fame has been steady and sure. In 1922 he barely lost the open championship at Skokie when he tied for second place with John Ricker, the California veteran, and Gene Sarazen swept in with record-breaking golf to win by a bare stroke.

In 1923 the flashing Georgia star won his first open title of importance when he tied with Bobby Cruickshank at Inwood and won the play-off.

The great Atlantan crushed George Von Elm, of San Francisco, under an overwhelming score at Merion, Philadelphia, to become American amateur champion for the first time. In the same year he was runner-up to Cyril Walker in the American open at Oakland Hills.

Loss By One Stroke. In 1925 Bob failed to win by one stroke the American open at Worcester, Mass., tying with Willie McFarlane and losing the 36-hole play-off. That golf was one of the most remarkable exhibitions the golfing world ever has seen. In 1925 Jones again became American amateur champion when he defeated the brilliant Watts Gunn, also of Atlanta, in the final round at Oakmont, where he had come so near to winning the American championship when a youth of 17.

He has tried twice for the British title, but has seen his efforts crowned with success only once—this year. He was a favorite to win at Muirfield, but under such distressing conditions as he had to face it was a task too great. He did defeat Bob Harris, the playing-through British champion and turned in a splendid card to do it, but the earlier weather at Rye and Sandwich then got in its work and Bob succumbed to a rheumatic shoulder, though fighting desperately to beat A. D. Jamieson, his conqueror.

There never was another golfer like Bob Jones. Professionals and other folk who follow golf and know the game call him the greatest stylist in the world ever has seen. And he certainly is all of that. When Jones swings a golf club poetry flows from it. With a slow back swing, deliberate down-swing, the club head meets the ball at just the proper time, with just the proper whip-lash of the wrists to send the pellet speeding on its way to another Jones par. But to all this praise his friends will add that he is one of the finest, one of the most open-hearted southern gentlemen ever lived. His charm of personality made him one of the best-liked men in England and about the boat on which we crossed to Europe.

A Game Sport. Jones never would have said that his shoulder was sore the day of his defeat at Muirfield. I found it out quite by accident. I knew that a masseur had been working on the shoulder for some time before Bob was scheduled to set out on his last round in the British amateur tournament. He never yet, has told me about it, except to laugh off a question I asked him about it. I recall telling Bob how sorry I was when he lost at Muirfield.

"Well," was the characteristic reply, "Don't lose any sleep over it." The life of this young Atlanta star has been one of successes, but even fuller of bitter reverses at the hands of players, who, exalted at the thought of playing with Bobby Jones, shook out of their bags the most magnificent golf imaginable. They have beaten him when any player on earth not prejudiced would admit at once that he was the greatest golf player in the world. Why, Jess Sweetser, who won the British amateur championship after Bob was put out, broke the record at Brookline, Mass., in 1923 to beat Bob. Gene Sarazen has dropped to mediocrity since he defeated "our Bob." None of them, not even the great Walter Hagen can produce medals of competitive golf to equal the record of Bobby Jones. His total score was 13 strokes ahead of the next player to him. It is even more now.

Bob Jones is the purest amateur known to sport. He would not sully his name with the slightest hint of professionalism. He has refused offers to make money through his name in a perfectly legitimate way because of his own feeling in the matter. He wants to be known and he will be known as an athlete who always stayed pure in an amateur.

ONLY MIRACLE CAN STOP YANKS

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

Unless the crushing New York Yankees are halted it will take another miracle to prevent them from winning the pennant.

On the other hand those "miracles" have happened just often enough in the big leagues to eliminate much chance of the Yanks deciding they have the race "in."

The Yankees, on June 15, had won 41 and lost 16.

Back in 1902 the Pittsburgh Pirates saw visions of a pennant when, on the same date, they had tucked away 34 victories and had lost 10 games. They held that lead.

The 1907 race furnished a surprise. The Giants seemed headed for victory with a record, on June 19, of 24 victories and three defeats. The Chicago Cubs, after threatening all season long, nosed them out.

Of course the sensational spurt of the Yankees in 1925 furnished the greatest upset of all time.

Most fans will recall that the Phillies got away to a running start

HILL DUGAN FACING TASK IN BOUT HERE

The few lines that trickled in over the wire Friday to the effect that Benny Touchstone, the Miami heavyweight, had knocked out Jack Monroe, of Omaha, in the fourth round in New York, carried considerable significance to one young man in this vicinity—Knockout Dugan, by name—whose duty it will be if possible to put a halt to the Florida winning streak in the auditorium Tuesday night.

Touchstone's victory was scored in a preliminary on the Mickey Walker-Dundee bout in Madison Square Garden, and, apparently, the member of the Florida winning streak himself with glory. While Monroe is little known in these parts, he has won several bouts in and around New York and was considered a worthy opponent for Touchstone.

Thus Billy Dugan's task becomes even stiffer. He must travel 10 rounds with Touchstone in the semi-final of the Baby Stribling-Hollis Sullivan 10-round match.

For the other 10 rounds, Honey Boy Snipes, of Macon, and Benny Hager, of Atlanta, have made reservations to battle out their dispute, which cropped up at the last show when Snipes was charged with an questionable decision in eight rounds.

Promoter Herbert Watson has his eye on a couple of preliminary performers, with whom he will open the entertainment over the four-round horse.

American Man, the only horse in the race who has established an official win record, ran third, both in the 11 and 12 mile races, and finds his hopes partly dashed by the rush of the Hagens. Tris Speaker, laboring diligently to get good pitching, has held his team in first division with some timely hitting and good base-running and fielding.

Connie Mack, doped last spring to lead the pack, has overcome some hard luck and the usual shortcomings of his team, and is fighting to overhaul the Hagens.

One of these men make history repeat itself, or will the Yanks march along to a flag—much to the dismay of every other fan in the ballpark, who took the rubber hand off his bankroll last winter to land the pennant again?

'Greeny' Wins Lakewood Race

Billy Shirling, four-year-old green trotter of the E. T. Cannon stables, of Concord, N. C., set a new Lakewood track record for his class at 2:07 in a match race Saturday afternoon with B. G. Landrum's American Man, 2:14, one of the most consistent winners on southern tracks for several years, and Tom Coggins' Arnold Watts, four-year-old green trotter. Dick Rogers drove Billy Shirling. The owners drove the others.

Now American League fans may well ponder the possibility of Huggins winning the pennant.

Dinner was served in the main dining room, the speakers' table occupying the center of the large room. An oblong centerpiece was made of gladioli and blue delphinium, and at the four corners were mounds of flowers with Marie Antoinette baskets rising from the center filled with pink gladioli and delphinium. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In a letter she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. ## Use of Poisoned Bran To Kill Tobacco Pest Urged by Department

The most effective control of the green June beetle, which eats the tobacco plant, is by poisoned bran bait, consisting of one part of bran to 25 parts of poison, according to a bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture. The bait, it is said, should be applied to tobacco plants. Experiments conducted by the department have shown this method to be effective, it is stated.

The practice of permanent tobacco beds, adopted of recent years, says the bulletin, has aided the development of the grubs of the green June beetle. The beds are covered with manure, tobacco stalks, straw and similar material, after the plants are removed to the field, in order to maintain fertility. The grubs develop rapidly in this layer of decaying vegetable matter, some becoming full grown by late fall and burrowing deeply into the soil for the winter.

Little girl suffers five years from unusual skin trouble Resinol relieves and heals

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 9.—"Sometime ago my little girl's whole body became dry and scaly. The skin under her shoes cracked open, which made it very painful. We were advised to keep her skin soft with a good cold cream or pure lard and for five years I have spent many hours and used numerous half-pound cans of cold cream, but to no avail. As she grew older the trouble gradually became worse until I remembered that when she was a baby I had cured a bad case of eczema by using Resinol Soap and Ointment.

So for three weeks she has had no other soap on her skin and I cannot begin to tell you how much improvement has been made. Her feet are almost normal and the rest of her body is better than it has been for years. Up to this time I had never been able to bathe her oftener than was absolutely necessary, but now a bath with your wonderful soap actually makes her skin moist and rosy, whereas before, soap and water made her look and feel parched and dry even after a liberal application of grease."

The land is located on Donnelly avenue, which is paved from Cascade avenue to Lee street and has all improvements already laid and ready for building, in one of the growing residential sections of Atlanta.

Antoists may go either via Lee street or Cascade avenue in West End as the land is located about halfway between the two main thoroughfares. Either the Whitehall-Beecher or the East Point-Hapeville and College Park street cars go within four blocks of the property.

again and again women say it/

"St. Charles Evaporated Milk makes everything taste as if cooked with cream." Use it for soups and sauces—hot breads, cakes—pudding, pies, ice cream—for delicious cocoa, too. If the recipe says milk, dilute with an equal part of water; for cream use as is. It's twice as rich as the usual milk. Yet the cost is moderate—and there's no chance of waste—it keeps without ice until the can is opened. Order by the dozen or half-dozen cans.

Survey of Georgia River Systems Asked by Harris

Washington, June 23.—(Special).—The rivers and harbors bill goes to the senate from the senate commerce committee with all the Georgia items intact as they came over from the house, and in addition the amendments inserted in the bill by Senator Harris, member of the committee.

In committee Senator Harris substituted a seven-million dollar survey program for a half-million-dollar program appearing in the house bill. The secretary of war, through the army engineering corps, and the federal power commission had been jointly authorized and directed to prepare and submit to congress an estimate of the cost of making surveys, examinations and other investigations of navigable streams of the United States, whereupon power development appeared feasible and practicable, with a view to forming general plans for the most effective development of such streams.

The survey included nearly the whole river system of Georgia, and the total estimate of cost as given by the war department was $7,222,400. The house set up a program for about one-fiftieth this amount, but Senator Harris was successful in having the entire set of recommendations of the war department adopted by the senate commerce committee.

Rivers included and their tributaries are the Chattahoochee, Savannah above Augusta, Altamaha, Oconee, Flint, Ocmulgee, Apalachicola, Tallapoosa, Broad, Chattooga, Coosa, Etowah, Oostaula, Satilla and St. Mary's.

PLACEMENT OFFICE IS RAISING FUNDS

The Georgia college placement office, organized to help graduates of Georgia colleges to secure positions in the business world, has secured one-half of the amount necessary for its continued maintenance, it was stated Friday. These subscriptions, it is said, were received as the result of one letter sent out to business houses by the reorganization committee which is seeking to reestablish the placement office.

Georgia Railway and Power company, $300; Southern Bell Telephone and Telephone company, $200; Retail Credit company, $200; Georgia School of Technology, $300; Emory university, $300; Agnes Scott college, $100; Wesleyan Female college, $100.

French Cabinet Discusses Plan To Ratify Debt

Paris, June 23.—(AP)—Ratification of the debt settlement with the United States, which has become one of the outstanding questions connected with the financial policy of the government, was discussed this afternoon by the new cabinet. The subject was merged in the general financial problem, which, says a communique, was set forth to the cabinet by M. Caillaux, the finance minister.

M. Caillaux is understood to have told his colleagues that the best policy was to ratify the debt if possible, although certain clauses made approval by parliament extremely difficult. He is represented by close friends as favoring postponement of consideration of the debt settlement until the atmosphere can be cleared.

Publication by the newspapers of letters exchanged at the time the debt was incurred has made considerable impression, since they show that article 7 of the Washington agreement simply confirms the terms on which the money advanced to France by the United States.

La Liberte is one of the newspapers that point out that the French public is just being informed concerning the exact conditions under which the loans were made by the American treasury, and inquire why the man in the street has been kept so long in ignorance of the facts.

Catholic Church Pilgrims Leaving Chicago for Home

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—Five days of spiritual pageantry concluded thousands of the hosts of pilgrims who came here to attend the 28th international eucharistic congress were departing on special trains for their homes tonight while Chicago, which entertained upward of one million visitors during the week, returned to normal.

Several of the church dignitaries will remain here for a few days but most of the visitors had left the city tonight or will have gone by the end of the week.

After a complete checkup today it was announced that not a single serious transportation accident had occurred in the transporting yesterday of upward of 800,000 pilgrims from Chicago to Mundelein, Ill., and back.

City officials said that despite the vast throngs in the downtown district, automobile accidents during the congress were actually less than before it and attributed the fact to the no-parking regulation in effect in the downtown district this week.

Cardinal Bozano, papal legate to the congress, returned to the home of Cardinal Mundelein from the Mundelein ceremonies today. He will go to St. Louis next week and returns here for a short visit before going east to sail for Rome. Cardinal O'Connell of Boston left by boat with Boston pilgrims after yesterday's ceremonies, and Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia also departed by train for his home today.

Cardinal O'Donnell of Ireland and Cardinal Von Faulhaber of Germany will go with Cardinal Bozano to St. Louis.

Cardinal Hayes of New York is remaining here for a few days as the guest of Cardinal Mundelein. St. Louis will have at least three of the cardinals as its guests. Philadelphia, through its mayor, today extended an invitation to all the prelates to attend the sequel-centennial there.

NAME OF OTHER Man in Brewster Tragedy Guarded

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Two families today guarded the name of a man whose letter caused Sydney Erskine Brewster to shoot his wife and kill himself.

District Attorney Edwards admitted that the families of Brewster and his wife, the former Frances Tracy Lyon, together with a few Nassau county officials, knew the real identity of "Red," who signed the letter that was thought to have inflamed Brewster.

Mr. Edwards said it was considered unnecessary to reveal the name, as the man is not criminally liable, and there is a general official belief that he did not write with the motives apparently imputed to him by the husband.

The letter, in addition to addressing Mrs. Brewster in endearing terms, contained a fragment of an old Spanish love song. It was reconstructed almost in its entirety after being found torn in small pieces in Brewster's wallet.

Mrs. Brewster's family said she was believed to have met the man when she visited the tropics for her health.

Wesson Oil and a fresh egg make MAYONNAISE

Few things are easier to make than good mayonnaise.

Wesson Oil and a fresh egg—beaten together and seasoned to taste—and you have a mayonnaise you'll be proud of!

Quickest results are obtained if the oil and egg are not too cold. The ordinary temperature of your kitchen is just right.

Break an egg in a bowl—

Add about a tablespoonful of Wesson Oil.

Beat vigorously with an egg beater or a fork—until the oil and egg are thoroughly mixed. How long will that take? Perhaps while you count fifty—not as fast as you can count but as fast as you can beat.

Add another tablespoonful of oil and beat again—vigorously. Two tablespoonfuls and beat again. Two or three more and beat again.

Your mayonnaise will begin to thicken a little.

Then add Wesson Oil about four tablespoonfuls at a time, beating well after each addition—until your mayonnaise is as thick and stiff as you want it. The more oil you beat into it the thicker your mayonnaise will be. Most women use about two cupfuls—some more. [Never add more than a quarter cupful of oil at any one time].

After your mayonnaise is made, add seasoning. Mix a half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful each of sugar and mustard, a generous pinch each of paprika and red pepper—add a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar and stir until the salt and sugar are dissolved—then pour into the mayonnaise and beat well.

With Wesson Oil Mayonnaise as a base you can make many delicious fancy salad dressings in a very few minutes—for instance—

CELERY MAYONNAISE—Combine one-third cupful of tender celery, which has been put through a food chopper, with one-half tablespoonful lemon juice, and one cupful of Wesson Oil Mayonnaise. Use with any green vegetable salad, or with potato, cucumber, tomato, chicken, fish or egg salad.

By Louise Dooley

THE group was triangular, but not in the eternal sense, and so conversation, when it turned on love, was not self-conscious.

Said the first woman: "One quality every woman wants in her lover is impulsiveness. The cautious suitor—well, she puts up with him if she has to."

"Right you are," agreed woman No. 2. "And does the cautious lover's method end in happiness any oftener than the Irishman's whose slogan, when he makes love is 'to commend his soul to the Almighty and plunge in'?"

"Not so fast, ladies, not so fast," remonstrated the one gentleman. "Why commit us suitors to so much? Love making, you will agree, will you not, is a pleasant pastime in itself?"

The ladies smiled and nodded.

"Then why tie up pastime with responsibility. Now, there's our friend Lawrence, who admits that he is willing to kiss any pretty woman—and Lawrence himself, you know, is not exactly repulsive to the ladies—he admits that he is willing to kiss any pretty woman provided she is willing to evaluate his kiss as a compliment and not as a contract."

"There was a reflective pause on the part of the ladies. Maybe they were thinking of Lawrence."

Then the gentleman, finding he was not to be annihilated, went on speculating.

"Speaking of the Irishman and his method, I wonder whether you'd call Solomon or Henry VIII. the greatest plunger?"

"Why, Henry VIII.," quickly responded the first woman. "With Solomon—and there was irony in her tone—"no responsibility attached to pastime. His favors, unlike Lawrence's, scarcely even complimented the lady. They only added to the prestige of his harem as the biggest and best."

"Henry VIII. I call the real plunger."

Search for Kelley May Be Dropped, Friends Assert

if not to get you where you are going in a hurry?

Just how important it is that this young woman should get anywhere except to jail, which happily proved her destination (happily for the community) suggests another famous remark that came out of France like a good many years ago, but is thoroughly modern in its current applicability.

It was Talleyrand, who, when a chronic office seeker importuned him, said he could not get for him the job desired.

"But," persisted the office seeker, "I must live."

Said Talleyrand—"I see no necessity for it."

AND then this:

Is that self-righteous early bird, who gets out on the golf links at 6:30 or thereabouts, has his lone game before breakfast, and then gets to his office just overflowing with health, and rambunctious with quickened mentality; is he quite ethical?

Or is he not taking a mean advantage of the average competitor who slept late and gobbled his breakfast counting on digesting it on the way to town? Isn't the latter the more human type, and is it fair that he should be penalized for being merely human?

PHILADELPHIAN HELD FOR MIAMI MURDER

Miami, Fla., June 25.—(P)—Jack Keely, 23, of Philadelphia, Pa., today was charged by a coroner's jury with second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting Wednesday night here of William Andrews, 26, of Winnipeg, Canada. Preliminary hearing has been set for Monday.

Keely was said to have admitted to police that he fired the shots which wounded Andrews and resulted in his death several hours later at a local hospital where he had been taken by Keely for medical aid. Keely declared that he had retired for the night and mistook Andrews for a burglar when he shot him. He has been held in jail here since giving himself up after the shooting.

They were Miss Sarah E. Johnson, St. Petersburg manager of the Stanley Realty and Development company; C. F. Sauter, Florida manager of the company, and L. E. Elgie, secretary of the Desoto County Chamber of Commerce. E. L. McGrath, president of the E. L. Their hearings were set for July 9, the same date as those for four more arrested in the same case yesterday.

G. O. P. SENATORIAL CHANCES DISCUSSED AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, June 25.—(P)—Republican senatorial campaign prospects were discussed at the white house breakfast conference today.

President Coolidge had as his guests the entire republican senatorial campaign committee, Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the republican national committee, and Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader in the senate.

As soon as congress adjourns Senator Phipps, of Colorado, chairman of the committee, intends to make a trip to at least a week to establish headquarters at Chicago.

Probe into the disappearance last Tuesday of J. A. Kelley, Atlanta wholesale poultry dealer, likely will be discontinued by city and county authorities and the case will be placed in the hands of private detectives, friends of the missing man indicated Friday night.

The theory that Kelley met with foul play has been discounted and many wild rumors concerning his whereabouts after being traced were unfounded, it is said. County police investigated a report Friday afternoon that a blue suit was found in the neighborhood where his wrecked car was found on the Chattahoochee river bridge near Bolton, but failed to verify the report.

Edgar Craighead, Atlanta attorney and friend of Kelley, who led the search for him, stated Friday night that he had dismissed the theory that Mr. Kelley had met with foul play and that the investigation now will be given entirely in the hands of private detectives.

Keely disappeared from his office about 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. His light coupe was found Wednesday morning on the river bridge near Bolton, and friends were apprehensive that he might have met with foul play. His hat and a local hotel room key were found in the automobile.

Fulton and Cobb county authorities and city detectives aided in the search. The river was dragged for two miles above and below the scene on the theory that he might have drowned.

FAMOUS PLAYERS VOTES $20,000,000 TO BUY THEATER

New York, June 25.—(P)—Stockholders of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, of which Adolph Zukor is president, today voted more than $20,000,000 to purchase control of the Balaban and Kitz corporation which operates a chain of theaters in Chicago.

Seven witnesses were called during the day by Abe Aronovitch, assistant state's attorney. J. Simon, residing along the road near Home-stand, where the crime is said to have been committed, testified he saw Hood put Mrs. Wooten into the car. Testimony also was offered that Hood was intoxicated when he stood at the side which resulted in Mrs. Wooten's death. It is charged in a grand jury indictment that the woman died from injuries received when she was pushed from the motor car by Hood.

A large crowd of spectators attended the trial, which will reconvene at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow.

1,700-PAGE BILL, CODIFYING LAWS, PASSES IN SENATE

Washington, June 25.—(P)—The senate today for an hour tonight with the 1,700-page bill codifying laws of the United States enacted between 1789 and December 7, 1925, and ended by passing the measure.

Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, explained the bill, which was not read, chiefly because it was estimated that it would take the clerk at least a week to repeat its millions of words. Because of the cost only a few copies were printed and the senate presented the unusual picture of Senator Pepper, striding the huge document from desk to desk as various senators voiced questions concerning it. During the debate the monster bill was referred variously as "that thing," "this huge document," and "that 1,700 pages."

The measure makes no change in existing law, but only establishes the order of the statutes of the United States.

1 SLAIN, 1 HURT IN GUN BATTLE WITH DRY AGENT

El Dorado, Ark., June 25.—(P)—P. F. Gully, aged 69, Junction City, merchant, was fatally wounded and his son, Walter, aged about 40, was seriously injured late this afternoon in a gun battle with Federal Prohibition Officer Will Potham in the streets of Junction City.

The shooting is said to have begun when Walter Gully approached a filling station where the officer had stopped with his wife. Gully is alleged to have opened fire without warning. Potham returning it immediately. A moment later the officer Gully approached behind the officer, who turned and fired twice. The officer, who was unhurt, is said to have gone to Homer, La., where he notified parish officers of the affray.

The men are said to have had trouble more than a year ago when the officer arrested a brother of Walter Gully on a liquor charge.

PLEA FOR RECOUNT IN G. O. P. PRIMARY IS THROWN OUT

Chicago, June 25.—The suit filed by Judge Daniel T. Trude, asking a recount of ballots in the last republican primary on the ground that fraud and gun rule had dominated the polls, has been thrown out of court with no chances of being reinstated.

Superior Judge Jesse Holdom dismissed the application for a recount because he said the case should have been filed in a circuit court. The limit for filing the petition in the circuit court has expired and with no other court to which an appeal of this nature may be taken, Chicago's most recent election scandal apparently has spluttered out.

Charges of Judge Trude that gunmen had intimidated voters and that wholesale errors had been made in counting ballots resulted in a special grand jury being drawn to investigate the election. The grand jury is still in session.

Cardinal O'Donnell Goes To Sanitarium To Visit His Cousin

(By Lined Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Aurora, Ill., June 25.—Cardinal Patrick O'Donnell, the primate of Ireland, who came from the old country to attend the eucharistic congress in Chicago, today went to Aurora to see his cousin at Mercyville manitum and four members of the Sisters of Mercy whom he confirmed in Ireland many years ago.

Middle-aged women, now in charge of the sanitarium, the sisters were but girls when they took their vows. Several hundred persons hearing of the cardinal's coming greeted him on his arrival here. He granted a brief interview, saying:

"America is a wonderful country. It is not only a wonderful, but a good country, a bit too good, I'm afraid, for some of those who come to it. The people, no matter what their creed may be, are as wonderful as their country."

MOTION DENIED IN HOOD TRIAL

Miami, Fla., June 25.—(P)—Refusal of Judge H. F. Atkinson to grant a motion that the jury be instructed to return a verdict of not guilty marked the close of the first day's activities in the trial of Luther Hood, charged with the murder of Mrs. Elsie Wooten, of Atlanta, Ga., May 21, in circuit court today.

The motion was made by the defense attorneys at the conclusion of examination of state's witnesses late in the afternoon. The attorneys held that the state's attorney had not produced evidence to show that Hood was in any way guilty of the crime and maintained that Judge Atkinson would be justified in instructing the jury to return a verdict of not guilty without hearing the defense witnesses' testimony.

Seven witnesses were called during the day by Abe Aronovitch, assistant state's attorney. J. Simon, residing along the road near Home-stand, where the crime is said to have been committed, testified he saw Hood put Mrs. Wooten into the car. Testimony also was offered that Hood was intoxicated when he stood at the side which resulted in Mrs. Wooten's death. It is charged in a grand jury indictment that the woman died from injuries received when she was pushed from the motor car by Hood.

A large crowd of spectators attended the trial, which will reconvene at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow.

MERCHANT HELD FOR TENNESSEE MAYOR'S DEATH

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 25.—(P)—J. H. Brannan, merchant, was held without bond after preliminary hearing today for the slaying of Mayor W. H. Krichbaum, of Alton Park, a suburb, last Monday, when the official was attempting to arrest his slayer on a charge of espionage. Testimony showed that Brannan had threatened the life of Krichbaum on several occasions. When Krichbaum entered Brannan's store a few words passed between the men when the merchant drew a pistol and shot the mayor four times. Krichbaum staggered out of the building, crossed the street and fell, dying against the screen door of a restaurant. Brannan offered no defense testimony.

New York, June 25.—(P)—Early decline in cotton today was followed by a recovery, July selling up from 17.00 to 18.10, a 2-point higher, while December, after selling off from 16.75 to 16.45, closed at 16.52. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 1 point on July, but from 12 to 16 points net lower on the new crop contracts.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 8 points in response to favorable weather reports, and liquidation and selling by brokers with southern and local connections. Circulation of July notices which were finally estimated at about 25,000 bales, or virtually the entire local certificated stock, caused some near-month liquidation which had an unsettling effect on the general level.

July led the decline, selling 22 points below yesterday's closing figure, while new crop contracts worked about 10 to 22 points net lower. The covering movement responsible for advances earlier in the week was less in evidence, but some interest in the market was still being shown.

Prices were firm up during the afternoon on reiterated reports of insect damage in the south.

Two more private end-crop reports were issued, one estimating the condition at 77.3, the acreage under cultivation at 47,220,000 and the indicated crop at 15,000,000 bales. The other put the condition at 75, the acreage at 47,220,000 and the indicated crop at 15,000,000 bales.

Exports for the day totaled 15,706 bales.

Judge Bell's Chance in Finance FOR RE-ELECTION

Washington, June 25.—(Special.) Representative Thomas M. Bell, of the ninth district, dean of the Georgia delegation in congress and fifth in the whole membership of the house in point of continuous service, has announced his candidacy for reelection to congress.

Judge Bell's reelection will start him on his twelfth consecutive term in the house, where he is recognized as one of the leaders. He began his service in 1905. At the present time the dean of the Georgia delegation, whose home is in Gainesville, is ranking second in the whole membership of the house in point of continuous service, and in the event of a democratic house in the next congress, which the judge and others confidently predict, he will become chairman of this committee.

The representative of the ninth Georgia district is one of the most popular members of the house. During his 20 years of service here he has made a host of friends.

In addition to his service as ranking democratic member of the post-office committee, Judge Bell has taken an active interest in other legislative matters, both national and for the state.

In his formal announcement to the people of his district, Representative Bell said that he was not seeking reelection to congress for the purpose of making a record, but for the purpose of continuing his service to his constituents.

"In announcing my candidacy for the democratic nomination to congress, I am not making a record," he said, "but I am making a record for my constituents. I am making a record for my constituents by continuing my service to them."

"I am making a record for my constituents by continuing my service to them. I am making a record for my constituents by continuing my service to them. I am making a record for my constituents by continuing my service to them."

More Interest Was Shown By Some Traders in Bobby Jones' Win of the British Open Golf Championship Than the Stock Market.

New York, June 25.—Professional stock market traders believing that there was a chance of settling the market on disturbed money market conditions connected with the heavy July interest and dividend payments and other seasonal financing sold more shares short concentrating on Hudson. Market strength in the rails, however, held the market. There has never been a time in the history of our railroads when railway shares have enjoyed as much technical stock market strength based on the small floating supply, and sound earnings and financial position.

While industrial, public utility and oil companies have been expanding production facilities and capital stock during the past 20 years, especially the last 10, the railroads have built practically no new mileage and have been practicing no stock issue, the meantime paying back hundreds of millions of dollars from surplus earnings over and above interest charges and dividends.

Many pools now are operating in the stock market, of course, on the long side, and it appears that in many stocks prices are being marked up without getting a following. The result of this is a sharp price decline when those who accumulate stock for the purpose of marking up the price attempt to sell. This, however, does not apply to the rails, where good buying is going on and has for months been going on.

Shrewd floor members of the stock exchange say that all indications point good buying in Missouri Pacific preferred. Analysis of the position of this 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock shows that the price is now making a new high for the year, nearly 20 points above the 1928 low made in March at 71 1/2. For 1925 the company earned 5 per cent for its preferred stock and 4 per cent for its common stock. The common stock, which is doubtfully a largely held by the back dividends on the preferred shares is now $30 a share. Naturally, the stock is being bought by investors who are looking for a dividend on the preferred shares.

When regular dividends are started on the preferred stock, then extra payments will be made from time to time to get rid of the back dividends which must be paid before the holders of the common stock can share in surplus earnings over and above fixed charges. Missouri Pacific's present selling price reflects expectations of dividends. At the present price level, if a 5 per cent dividend is started, the income return would be 5.6 per cent. Anything in the way of extra dividends to pay off the 30 per cent back dividends would increase the income return.

Much interest was displayed by Wall street in today's estimate by the financial chronicle of the cotton crop placing the acreage at 45,158,000 acres, compared with last year's high record of 48,000,000 w. ch indicates a crop of between 15,500,000 at 16,000,000 bales. The first government cotton report will be made July 2.

The feeling here is that this report has been pretty well discounted marketwise. However, it is realized that the cotton crop is now entering the critical stage and for July and August will be influenced by weather which may entirely change the outlook.

With the reserve ratio of the federal reserve bank higher than it has been in many a long month and those of other banks high, no money market disturbance is expected by Wall street bankers from the heavy July financing.

Call Money Easy. Money on call was easy today both on the stock exchange floor and on the outside market where the rate dropped to 4 per cent.

Industrial and Rails, Strong as Motors Drop

New York, June 25.—(P)—Stock prices drifted lower in today's market although a steady investment demand was apparent for some of the high-grade railroad issues. Trading, which was largely of a professional character, showed a moderate falling off in volume. Total sales were 1,297,200 shares, compared with 1,342,100 yesterday and 1,738,200 the day before.

The senate's defeat of the McCarran-Haugen relief bill brought about a sharp recession in active wheat futures, but apparently had no influence on the movement of securities prices. The day's business news was characterized by a number of interesting developments being the declaration of an extra dividend on corn products.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported that business was being maintained in good volume. While the textile, shoe, leather and furniture business was rather slow, an improvement in the steel industry, with some improvement in the petroleum industry, while current reports note the largest sales of pig iron since late in 1924. Despite reduced building operations in some sections, demand for structural material remains substantial, and building of railroad equipment has increased to sizable proportions. With such factors present, and with most of the principal cross showing betterment, the general outlook has a more favorable aspect.

Motor shares were subjected to heavy selling for the day. General Motors was hammered down 2 1/2 points at the close. General Motors showed a slight fractional loss at 40-7/8 after having been sold down to 41-1/4 and 41-1/2. Reports or curtailed operations during the inventory season were a factor in the selling of these shares.

Weakness developed in a number of specialties, particularly some which had been marked up vigorously by pools. Net declines of 2 to nearly 5 points were recorded by Allied Chemical, American Agricultural Chemical, Electro Storage Battery, Hayes Wheel, Solvents B. DuPont, Foundation Co., Goodrich preferred, Gold Dust, Gulf States Steel, Motometer A., Panhandle Producers and Refiners, Sloss-Sheffield, South Porto Rican Sugar, Standard Milling and Westinghouse Air Brake.

There were a few independent strong spots scattered throughout the industrial list. U. S. East Iron Pipe rallied over 6 points to 193-1/2 and then eased to 191-3/4 and United Cigar Stores, Electro Storage Battery, Hayes Wheel, Martin Perry and Union Carbide advanced a point or more while Wagon Sound touched a new high at 35-1/8.

The best gains in the railroad group were recorded by Chesapeake & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson and Norfolk & Western. "Nickel Plate" common fell back 3 points on profit-taking. Commodity markets were mixed. The July option in wheat dropped over 3 cents a bushel at $1.34-5/8 with smaller losses in the more distant contracts.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

INSTALLMENT XLII.
A JOYOUS MEETING.

John's face darkened somewhat as he read Betty's letter. "Of course, you have arrived by the first train. Now that you are here, I shall be relieved if you hop it by the next one. I don't suppose you will do anything of the sort, but my pious hope should be registered by the Recording Angel as a plea that I tried hard to stop the mischief which I fear I helped to start. Well, that is my last growl. For the rest, I am with Eileen and you to the death."

"I'm useful in a scrap, but all the same you had better be prepared for ructions. Some bad lad turned up here today in Ferguson's bus. We were at luncheon when his card was brought to Alistair, and I thought for a moment that our troubles were about to end, because the Asp's red face grew purple and then mauve. However, he went out, but not before Uncle Hector had asked who the visitor was. Alistair had evidently lost his nerve, and could not prevent dear old Timms from answering: 'A Mr. Ferdinand Connington, milord.' Your father seemed to recognize the name at once. 'What does that man want here?' he demanded. Alistair recovered slightly and said he would go and see, but Oban followed. None of us understood what all the blessed fuss was about, until old Timms whispered in my ear afterward that some one named Connington, he had been told years ago, was the chief witness against Master John."

"There must have been a short but spirited confab in the hall, because Alistair and Mr. Ferdinand Connington walked into the village, and Oban crossed the lock in the direction of Glen Inver. That forbodes a council of war tonight; he is sure to bring Colonel Grant back with him. And, just to thicken the plot, Timms confided that the Asp gave Brown a letter some mornings ago which he said he had forgotten to post overnight. That wasn't true, of course. A was terrified lest your father should have written you without consulting him, and he wanted to examine every letter in the bag. I happened to twig that part of it. But the amazing coincidence is that when Alistair produced his missing letter out of a pocket it was addressed to this very man Connington."

"I think you ought to know these things, so I write them, as Mary Lansing has explained the car and baggage scheme. Of course, I had business in the village about 3 o'clock, and saw Ferdinand supporting a barrel of potatoes outside Minter's, the new grocer, who married one of the Stewart girls. I cannot connect the fellow with his surname, which is rather swank. Ferdinand! Yes. A splendid fit, followed by De Silva or Goldamo. But not Connington. He has the look of an ex-service man who suffers from alternate attacks of shell shock and D. T.'s. You have not forgotten, I'm sure, that I had an unholy experience in Italy during the war, so I know a bit about both those diseases.

"That's all. Nothing I can say will prevent you from arriving at Macdonald's place. Luckily, it is round the corner and two hundred yards away from Minter's, but I'm told you have brought with you some wretched hound, which advertises you over two parishes at a time. And have Eileen and you settled what you are going to do? That's a stupid question, I know, seeing that you only exchanged about six words, most of hers being choked with tears, I understand. Why do some women want to weep when—O, well, I'd better shut up. I may see you tonight, but I shouldn't be in the least surprised if the house is barricaded inside and out before dinner."

"P. S. I am writing this behind my locked door. From my window I can see Alistair deep in consultation with the village constable, a dour Aberdonian, who, by the way, has never met you. I wish I dared sick him on to Ferdinand."

Betty's budget was of some importance—far greater importance than either she or John could possibly imagine at the moment. But its immediate purpose was to warn him that, by some mischance, hostile influences were afoot already.

It was certainly a bit of bad luck that Connington should have timed his visit to Inverlochle so as to get there before the man who, little more than twenty-four hours earlier, would have denied any intention of going within twenty miles of the place. This vital fact was not admitted by many people when it assumed a peculiar significance. Yet it was true. But for the letters John received at Windermere he would have gone to Oban, followed the Caledonian Canal to Inverness, and thence traveled south rapidly. According to that itinerary he would hardly yet have reached Oban, and might have passed through Fort William a couple of days later.

However, here he was, and resolutely determined to grapple with each difficulty as it arose. He wondered, for a moment, if Eileen knew anything which she had not told Betty, but dismissed that notion before it really took shape in his mind. If either of the girls had heard that Connington was coming they would have mentioned the fact. They knew nothing of him; but as Betty implied never heard his name, and his arrival was apparently more disconcerting to Alistair than to any other person.

John reached the postoffice shortly before 7 o'clock, timing his passing down a well screened lane for an hour when the village was still occupied with the fog end of the day's work, which dealt exclusively with farming and stock raising. He passed into Macdonald's house through the kitchen, Spot, of course, being well in hand. And that was wise, too, because a pair of Highland terriers raised the welkin at sight of him and had to be shut off abruptly by the back door.

Macdonald, surprised by the racket, came and silenced them for a moment. He had just discovered who the caller was when the storm began again. The would-be fighters were banished to the front shop and a crossdoor bolted on them before the old man and the young could exchange a word of greeting.

The postmaster held out a welcoming hand and his eyes glistened. "Man," he said, "but it's a cure for sair e'en to hae sight o' ye!"

So, between them, Eileen and Macdonald contrived to make the wanderer's homecoming far more agreeable than he ever dreamed of. Then, the young lady herself was waiting in the settin' room. There, sure enough, John found Eileen, who began a breathless explanation of some thing Betty and she had planned, but gave up the attempt when John took her in his arms and held her there.

"I owe you that hug, Eileen," he said joyously. "You remember, of course, that I warned you off when we parted on Corrie nearly seven years ago. I had to behave today in the station, so this is our first real meeting."

No longer moved to tears, but a flushed and embarrassed young woman, Eileen extricated herself from this loverlike embrace. Like the rest of her sex, she wanted to make sure of her ground before taking an irrevocable step.

"Please do listen, John," she pleaded. "I have so much to say and so little time to say it in—that is, if I would avoid an open quarrel at Inverlochle. You have read Betty's note?"

"Yes. I'm prepared for all sorts of ructions."

"But my father is here, and is sure to dine with us. It would be altogether too marked if Betty and I disappeared about 9 o'clock, so I took a chance and came out for the half hour before dinner, that being a time when one is least likely to be missed."
